Every Feature of Fashion represented, to particularise is impossible.

COSTUMES! COSTUMES!!
Just a word or two to direct special attention to this department. Every lady, whatever her station, can find in our made-up Costume Room something to meet her requirements. All the most fashionable textures, with all that this season has produced of novelty and elegance is here; so that, whatever one's predilection may be, we are confident in satisfying. Among the most notable and attractive garments are:—
Beige Costumes, at £1 1s
Serge and Cashmere Ditto, from 30s to 5 guineas
Silk and Cashmere Ditto, ditto 5 guineas to 9 guineas
Coloured Silk Ditto, ditto 6 guineas to 15 guineas

Young Ladies' Velveteen, 70s
Coloured Evening Dresses, from 3½ guineas to 10 guineas
Black Spanish Lace Ditto, ditto 5 guineas to 11 guineas.
FARMER and COMPANY.

MANTLES! MANTLES!!
The provision made in this department for this season's trade has been successful beyond anticipation, and, so long as we can show garments of substantial value, embracing all the essentials for promenade or weather-resisting wear, we feel confident in retaining a full share of patronage for this room. We quote the following as deserving of special notice:—
Children's Ulsters, from 5s 6d to 16s 6d
Ladies' Ulsters, 10s 6d, 12s 6d, 16s 6d
Ladies' Ulsters, tailor made, Newmarket shape, the most approved, 21s, 30s

Ladies' Silk Jackets, trimmed fur, 49s 6d, 59s 6d
Ladies' Real Seal Mantles, from £20 to £50.
FARMER and COMPANY.

SILKS, SILKS.
The possession of a Silk Dress is not now perhaps the height of feminine ambition, but such nevertheless occupies the minds of most ladies at some time or other, and it is well therefore to know where the best known standard makes are procurable. Whatever of advance in manufacture we have been able to bring about, goes to the benefit of our patrons. Even our lowest qualities are rich looking, and serve to show the advantages we gain in negotiating our enormous purchases. We quote to-day:—
Black Gros Grains, at 2s 6d, 2s 11d, 3s 6d, 3s 11d, 4s 6d, 4s 11d, 5s 6d, 5s 6d, and upwards. In this department we are offering a BARGAIN, 20 yards of rich sky or Eau-de-Nil Gros Grain for 3½ guineas. These goods are worth 5s 6d per yard. We are submitting novelties in light silks for wedding and evening wear, Satins, Satins, rich Corded Silks, with brocades; Moires and Watered Silks TO MATCH, in the following admirable colours—Pink, Sky, Cream, Cardinal, Eau-de-Nil, Lavender, at from 2s 11d to 11s 6d per yard.
In this department we are also showing Velveteens and Velvets. Note, NOT TO FORGET, that for £10 10s you can purchase a Black or Coloured Lyons Silk Velvet Dress, such as no manufacturer can produce to-day for the same money. Colourings beautiful and seasonable. A parcel of rich Black Satin de Lyon and Satin Merveilleux, from 4s 11d to 13s 6d per yard, deserving of inspection.
Plushes. In the same room. These goods appear to be exactly what everyone wants for trimming. Nothing looks nicer, and really a well-selected trimming is of importance in the making up of any material, be it silk, cashmere, or the heavier woollens. You can see every shade produced at from 4s 11d to 10s 6d per yard.
AT FARMER'S.

MILLINERY.
French and English Millinery received by every mail, enabling us to submit an ever-charming display of Bonnets ranging from 18s 6d to 50s; Ladies' Trimmed Hats, from 15s 6d to 30s; Children's Trimmed Hats, from 10s 6d to 15s 6d; Children's Millinery Bonnets, from 9s 6d to 21s. FARMER and CO.

FURS.
Yes! 'tis cold enough for furs. To all who believe this (and we do, of course) we invite to inspect our choice importations for this department, now on view. FARMER and COMPANY.

UNDERCLOTHING.
We think there are few ladies now in Sydney—we had almost said the colony—who have to learn where they can safely and advantageously purchase such goods as we have to offer in this department. To spend money easily is one thing, to spend it well is often quite another, and for this reason we ask you to note the following lines and prices. You cannot make up your garments at the price we can sell them you. If you reside at a distance from Sydney, CUT OUT THIS ADVERTISEMENT IN ORDERING; HUNDREDS DO THIS.
Ladies' Chemises, 15s to 21s the half dozen
Ditto Nightgowns, 31s 6d, 39s, 75s the half dozen
Ditto Drawers, 10s 6d, 15s to 37s 6d the half dozen
Flannel Petticoats, 8s 6d, 12s 6d, 14s 6d to 21s each
Coloured Woven Petticoats, 3s 6d
Coloured Batswing ditto, 4s 6d, 5s 11d
Black Alpaca ditto, 7s 6d to 12s 6d
Black cashmere-lined Scarlet Flannel, trimmed satin, 27s 6d
Black Cashmere, trimmed satin, 14s 6d
Black Satin Skirts, 13s 6d to 42s
Ladies' Wrappers, Batswing, Flannel, Cashmere
Eiderdown in newest colours, from 10s 6d to 3 guineas
WOOLLEN GOODS, Ties, Gaiters, Infantees, Muffs, Jackets, Dolmans, in endless variety
Baby Linen Layettes, from 5 to 10 guineas.
Children's Costumes prettily trimmed in the following textures:—Serge, cashmere, and beige, of course in all the fashionable colourings, ranging from 5s 6d to 14s 6d. Black Velveteen Costumes in all sizes, from 22s 6d to 32s 6d.
FARMER and COMPANY.

FARMER'S Knock-About TWEED DRESS, 14 yards, for 15s 9d. Special value.

DRESS MATERIALS EXTRAORDINARY.
Our Stock in this department was never so varied and extensive as it is this season. It embraces the most fashionable fabrics from the English and Continental markets, at prices, in many instances, below manufacturers' lists. Our leading specialities include—Grey Beiges, at 6d, 7½d, 8½d; Homespun Beiges, 7½d, 8½d, 9½d, 1s, and upwards. Chuddah Tweeds, 1s; a remarkable parcel of these goods, quality for price; must clear them directly. Scarborough Serges in all the new dark colours for the season, 10½d per yard, a fabric of fashion, and specially suited to the season; Devon Serges, 1s. The new Dress Cloth, 16½d. Check Beiges, for children's school dresses, 8½d. Our special Killiecrankie Tweeds, 1s 9d for 30 years; and the Estamine Serges at 18d a yard, a superior texture for travelling specially adapted, warm, strong, and such as will certainly command an immense sale. Embroidered Robes in Tweed, at 27s 6d; ditto in self-coloured Diagonals, at 37s 6d.
All the above are confidently submitted to our patrons as seasonable textures, warm, and wear resisting, excellent in appearance, and at prices unparalleled. The tremendous growth of patronage, felt in this department perhaps more than in any other, evidences alike the public appreciation in securing the BEST GOODS at LOWEST PRICES, and our determination to meet the requirements of a rapidly increasing trade.
FOR EVENING WEAR we note amongst our almost endless variety the following:—Madras Muslins, from 9½d per yard; Fine Llamas, from 1s 3d. The Japan Unis, 1s 9d; Pekin Sole, 1s 9d. Cashmeres, specially imported for this counter, at 2s 6d, and a curiously fine quality at 3s 6d.
FARMER and COMPANY.

BLANKETS.
Our Sale this season stands unprecedented, and as in no previous season has our stock been so thoroughly and extensively assorted. We still hold the first place in this market. Our unrivalled GUINEA BLANKET still holds its own, notwithstanding the host of imitations, and the sale this season is simply incredible. We beg to quote, as worthy of note, the following:—We begin at 6s 11d per pair, and rise in price from 1s to 2s 6d per pair, up to 120s. In mentioning our higher prices we would announce the opening of our season's supply of the TASMANIAN PURE WOOL GOODS, which have established a reputation in our market. We fear nothing, as we have before said, for these goods, so long as they present the appearance they do, and the standard of excellence already attained remains unaltered.
FARMER and COMPANY.

WINTER HOSIERY.
This department has taken a lead with us, and the reason is, we have just what you want, both for quality and price. We are just now offering 500 dozen of Cashmere Hose, ladies' and children's sizes, at 8½d per pair, a few days' supply for us, and we scarcely expect to repeat such a marvel of cheapness. Wool Shawlettes, from 7d to 2s 6d; Clouds, from 3s 11d to 16s 6d; Opera or Travelling Hoods, from 4s 6d to 16s 6d. We are prepared to see Fanny, with her sisters, cousins, and aunts, for the wonderfully cheap hosiery AT FARMER'S.

GENTLEMEN'S UNDERCLOTHING.
Owing to the care and energy exercised by our buyers for this important department, we are to-day prepared with an assortment complete for all requirements in Undershirts, Pants, and Drawers, in the following textures:—White and Coloured Merino, Balbriggan and other makes of cotton, Spun Silk, Dressed Silk, Cashmere, Lambswool, Vecuna, &c. Our "ARCTIC" goods are specially imported for invalids and travellers in cold regions. They are of a flexible texture, with soft fleecy lining, worthy of note to any requiring warmth, combined with lightness.

FURNITURE.
Are you about to furnish? If so, "hither bend thy course where beauty awaits thee," and all that high art can produce to adorn a home and add to its brightness can be inspected. To secure this every possible attention has been paid to the prevailing styles of furniture and their coverings. The blending of soft shades, the securing of the marvellous tints and colourings, now so deservedly popular, has been the aim of our buyers, and success in this direction has certainly been achieved. Every house may be tastefully decorated with little fear of descending to gaudiness and extravagance in any form by an inspection and purchase in our show rooms.
Note the following:—Bedroom Suite, consisting of Wardrobe, pair Toilet Glasses, Chest of Drawers, Towel-Horse, and Chair, £6 6s 6d; Dining-room Suite, the marvel of cheapness, £4 16s 6d; Drawing-room Suite, 56 designs to select from, first price, £11 11s, second £15—a grand suite for £21, prompt cash. FARMER and COMPANY.

EIDER DOWN QUILTS, all sizes.

CARPET DEPARTMENT.
Our consignments include an assortment of the best results of the most eminent manufacturers. High art displayed in the days of Queen Elizabeth and Anne is reproduced to-day under the hands of artists who have brought their cultured ideas to bear on the magnificence displayed in those periods of antique splendour, and have combined with this all that can be admired in our modern aestheticism. The lavish display of designs in Early English, Geometrical, Floral, and Japanese renders the selection of a floor covering a task of real delight, whilst the colourings introduced cannot but charm the most artistic eye. Ex the latest mails we have landed some hundreds of cases in Wilton, Brussels, and Tapestry, to which we invite inspection; and as our prices are WHOLESALE, we can confidently say that for cheapness we cannot be surpassed. Our stair coverings are in Wilton, Brussels, Tapestry, Dutch, Damask, and Twine Carpetings, in all widths and in such variety as to please the most fastidious.
JUST LANDED, a shipment of Linoleums. We direct special attention to our 6 feet Linoleum at 3s 6d per square yard as being the best and cheapest line in these now celebrated goods ever offered in the Australias.

DR. SIMMS, the Unrivalled Physiognomist and popular Speaker, is repeating for the last time his Illustrated and Amusing LECTURES on Practical and Scientific Physiognomy, at TEMPERANCE HALL, Pitt-street. Will lecture THIS EVENING, on Faces and Noses, at 8 p.m. Admission, 1s, 2s. Hundreds of portraits in oil may be seen at the lecture, and are free to-day to the public, in the Hall. The Pictorial World, London, says:—"Dr. Simms is known as a most skilled practical physiognomist." The Monetary Gazette, London:—"Dr. Simms is the most able and the most popular exponent of physiognomy among living men." The Rock, a religious paper, London:—"Will amuse, instruct, and enlighten the mind and purify the affections." The Times, London:—"The eminent physiognomist, Dr. Simms, reads characters and diseases from faces as though they were open books."

PHYSIOGNOMICAL CHARTS.—To-day, Dr. Simms will be at the comfortable private ante-room of the Temperance Hall, in order to supply the public with written descriptions, and his large Physiognomical Charts, accurately marked to indicate the Intellectual, Social, and Moral traits of applicants, their state of health, the occupations for which nature has adapted them, and the character of person they should choose for a life companion. Thousands of men and women in Great Britain and America are to-day reaping the benefits of a consultation with Dr. Simms. To follow his professional advice, communicated orally, or by means of his Charts, is to pursue the path of virtue, happiness, and worldly success.

HAVE YOU SEEN — THE NEW SASH RIBBONS / THE PATENT CLASP KID GLOVE / THE FRENCH BEAD COLLARS!

DRESS DEPARTMENT. A visit to our Premier Silk Department will repay any Lady in New South Wales for the time spent. In these colonies a more varied stock cannot be seen, at prices as low as the same class of goods can be purchased in London or Paris.

DRESS DEPARTMENT. For years this Department of the Palace Emporium has had the reputation of holding the newest, cheapest, and most fashionable goods of any Dress House in these colonies. We have this season succeeded in placing before the purchasers of costume materials a class of goods for beauty and durability that cannot be equalled by any house in Australia. We are showing some novelties this week, and would respectfully ask the Ladies of Sydney to pay this Department a visit.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
We would again specially urge upon the public the need there is for using every care TO PREVENT MAKING A MISTAKE IN OUR ADDRESS. Other persons of the same surname do not scruple to copy as close as possible our style of address and advertisement, and, whilst they thus acknowledge our success and high position in business, we are anxious that strangers should not be misled and suffer therefrom.
The original old-established CASH SYSTEM FIRM, who adopted this principle more than half a century ago, have ONLY ONE ADDRESS AND PLACE OF BUSINESS, the largest in the colonies. Once visited never mistaken afterwards.

THE AUSTRALIAN HOME-SHUTTLE SEWING MACHINE.
To prevent fraud and deception, every genuine Home-Shuttle Machine bears the AUSTRALIAN COAT OF ARMS, and the words "MADE EXPRESSLY FOR M. MOSS & CO."
20,000 in use in Australia, so they need no "puffing."
No. 1, Hand Machine, £4; No. 2, with treadle, £6; No. 3, with treadle, and cover to lock, £7.
M. MOSS and CO., Wynyard-lane.

THEY SELL in a most astonishing manner, though we are about the only agents who do not hawk our Machines round both town and country.
The secret is they are long known and well known, and have won FIRST PRIZE in the opinions of all who have used them in their own homes, which is the most genuine reward of merit.
Ask any lady who has a Willcox and Gibbs Machine, more especially the New Automatic Tension ones, for her verdict.

STEEDMAN'S SOOTHING POWDERS FOR CHILDREN CUTTING TEETH.
CAUTION TO PURCHASERS.
The value of this well-known Family Medicine has been largely tested in all parts of the world, and by all grades of society, for upwards of FIFTY YEARS. Its well earned extensive sale has induced SPURIOUS IMITATIONS, some of which, in OUTWARD APPEARANCE, so closely resemble the original as to have deceived many purchasers. The proprietor, therefore, feels it due to the public to give a special caution against the use of such imitations.
Purchasers are therefore requested carefully to observe the four following distinctive characteristics, without which none are genuine:—
1. In every case the words JOHN STEEDMAN, Chemist, Walworth, Surrey, are engraved on the Government stamp affixed to EACH PACKET.
2. Each SINGLE POWDER has directions for the dose, and the words "John Steedman, chemist, Walworth, Surrey," printed thereon.
3. The name Steedman is always spelt with two EE's.
4. The manufacture is carried on solely at Walworth, Surrey.
Sold in packets by all Chemists and Medicine Vendors at 1s 1½d and 2s 9d each. Sold in Sydney by ELLIOTT BROTHERS.

GREAT INTERNATIONAL FISHERIES EXHIBITION.

As we have already announced, it is intended to hold a great International Fisheries Exhibition in London, to open on the 1st May, 1883; and the colony will be represented by a splendid collection of fishes of Australia, forwarded by the trustees of the Australian Museum. We are indebted to Sir John Robertson for a copy of a report of the preliminary meeting, held at Willis's Rooms, London, at which it was resolved that the exhibition should be held. His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales was in the chair, and the following are extracts from the report:—

"His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, who was received with loud applause, said:—Ladies and Gentlemen,—I will call upon the Duke of Richmond, as chairman of the committee, to read the report.

"The Duke of Richmond and Gordon read the report of the committee, as follows:—'The project of holding an International Fisheries Exhibition in London is, in a great measure, the result of the success of the National Fisheries Exhibition, held in April, 1881, at Norwich, under the patronage of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, and under State recognition, with the powerful co-operation of the Worshipful Company of Fishmongers. At a private meeting, held in July, 1881, it was determined by a few leading gentlemen, interested in the welfare of the great fishing industries, to follow up the National Fisheries Exhibition at Norwich, by calling a public meeting in order to discuss the desirability of holding an International Fisheries Exhibition in London in 1883. A large and influential meeting was accordingly held at Fishmongers' Hall in August, 1881, under the presidency of the Marquis of Exeter, and resolutions were unanimously passed approving the idea as likely to be of the greatest benefit and importance to fishing industries throughout the world. A general and an executive committee were then formed, and great progress has since been made in preliminary arrangements. Her Majesty the Queen has graciously consented to give her name as patron, and H.R.H the Prince of Wales has also graciously consented to be the President. The list of vice-presidents includes the names of H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh, H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, H.R.H. the Duke of Albany, H.R.H. the Duke of Cambridge, H.R.H. Prince Christian, H.S.H. the Duke of Teck, and also the leading members of her Majesty's Government and of the late Administration, besides a large number of noblemen and gentlemen. The committee have bestowed long and anxious consideration on the prospectus of the proposed exhibition. The classification, which has been compiled with the assistance of leading scientific men, comprises every object adapted for exhibition, illustrative of sea and fresh water fisheries; the preparation, preservation, and utilisation of of fish; fish culture; the natural history of fish, and literature connected with fishing. Another department of the Exhibition will relate to the economic condition of fishermen. It is proposed to give prizes on important subjects connected with fishing; and, with a view of turning the Exhibition to practical account, conferences are to be held for the purpose of reading and discussing subjects specially connected with the fishing industries. The Exhibition is to be opened on the 1st May, 1883. In order to illustrate the great extent and magnitude of the fishing industries of the United Kingdom, it may be stated that, at the lowest calculation, 550,000 tons of fish are annually taken in British waters by our own fishermen; that, according to Professor Huxley, 3,000,000,000 herrings are annually taken in the North Sea alone; that 130,629 tons of fish were delivered in Billingsgate Market in one year; and that the fisheries of the United Kingdom are carried on by about 35,000 boats and vessels, giving employment to no less than 110,000 people afloat. The first International Fisheries Exhibition was held at Berlin, in the year 1880. The total receipts were £19,116, and the expenses £17,304, leaving a surplus of £1812. It is obvious that to carry out the proposed Exhibition on an adequate scale, having regard to its international character, a very large outlay will be necessary; it is, therefore, proposed to open immediately a subscription list for the general and prize fund, and also a subscription list for a guarantee fund, to provide against contingent liabilities in the event of the proceeds of the Exhibition proving insufficient to meet the expenditure. The committee have pleasure in announcing that the Fishmongers' Company have already promised the sum of £500 for the general and prize fund, and £2000 to the guarantee fund. It is hoped that the amount of support given both to the general and the guarantee fund will be of such a character as to free the committee from all pecuniary anxiety in relation to this great undertaking. At the same time, when it is remembered that the Berlin Exhibition was visited by 483,000 persons in 10 weeks, and the Norwich Exhibition by no less than 70,000 in three weeks, it may fairly be assumed that in the Great International Fisheries Exhibition, to be held in our own metropolis in 1883, and which is to remain open for six months, there will be such an immense influx of visitors that the enterprise will prove a financial success.'

"His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales again rose, and said: Ladies and Gentlemen,—You will, I am sure, have listened with interest to the report which has just been read to you by the Duke of Richmond, as it represents to you the labours of the committee of which his Grace is chairman, and as it also brought before your notice the salient points, and also important statistics in connection with this great proposed Fisheries Exhibition. You are all aware what a great success the one held at Berlin was; and I am inclined to think, as that exhibition was so great a success, and as the population of Berlin exceeds a little over 1,100,000, that an exhibition held in this great metropolis of the world, that numbers nearly 5,000,000 of inhabitants, has every chance of being successful in every respect (Applause.) We are also very anxious that foreign countries should co-operate; and we look especially to America on all important matters with reference to fish culture, whether respecting inland or sea fisheries. I may state that the United States' Fishery Commissioners reared, in 1878, no less than 15,790,000 shad; and the United States' Government voted 20,000 dollars towards the expenses of the American exhibits at the Berlin Exhibition. I therefore hope that at our exhibition next year they will be very liberal to us. (Applause.) The statistics which have been given here with regard to the enormous amount of fish taken and delivered in our great market, I may say is considerably under the mark. I believe I am correct in stating that it amounts to nearly 1,000,000 tons of fish taken annually in British waters by our fishermen, and that last year nearly 1,000,000 tons were landed in Billingsgate market. The value of the salmon fisheries, as you are doubtless aware, in England amounted to £800,000. Of course, in the great Exhibitions of 1851 and 1862 also, and in the great International Exhibitions held on the continent, there were exhibits of everything connected with fishing; but I may say that this great exhibition is a larger development of what was shown at those exhibitions; and to those who have had the advantage of seeing the remarkably well arranged exhibition last year, that will, I am sure, give them some slight idea what this exhibition in London will be, only on a very much larger scale. (Applause.) I may also mention that it is not only intended to show everything connected with pisciculture and with fishing generally, but also everything connected with life boats, and the saving of life—which is so very important; and every kind of apparatus and model will also be shown. (Applause.) There is another point which has been alluded to only slightly in the report; it is to be hoped that this exhibition will not only show things connected with fisheries, but that some good may accrue from it inasmuch as international discussions, and also lectures, will be held, from which some real good may be derived. (Applause.) There are several resolutions to be moved and seconded, and I will not, therefore, trouble you with more remarks. This is such an interesting subject that I might address you some time longer; but I think it may be better for us, perhaps, as no doubt the time of many gentlemen is valuable, and some have come a long distance, that I should not do anything further than ask the Duke of Edinburgh, if he will, to move the first resolution. (Loud applause.)

"His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh, who was warmly applauded, said: Ladies and gentlemen, in obedience to the chair, I rise to move the first resolution, which is the following,—'That the report now read be adopted, and that this meeting, having regard to the great and increasing importance of fishing industries throughout the world, cordially approves of the proposal for a great International Fisheries Exhibition, to be held in London in 1883, under the patronage of her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen.' I will not detain you at any length in introducing this resolution to your acceptance; but there are, I think, one or two points in the report to which I should like to allude, although the Prince of Wales has touched upon most of the heads of importance. I think I may say that the report, with regard to the figures, has certainly, if anything, erred on the side of caution; for in my professional duties in going round the coast of the United Kingdom, my impression is that the number of the population actually employed afloat must be considerably in excess of the 110,000 mentioned here. (Hear, hear.) Whilst this exhibition deals with such a very large portion of the population, and such a large industry, it is also of such great importance in providing food for the inhabitants of the country, that I think this exhibition is worthy of support. If the figures of 550,000 tons of fish, annually, be correct, I believe that that would amount annually to about £11,000,000 sterling in value, and that gives an idea of the enormous value of this particular trade. But I hope that this exhibition will not only be one for exhibiting things as they are already understood and invented, but that great improvements will be the result. (Applause.) More especially am I glad to hear mentioned by the Prince of Wales that there will be ample opportunity for discussing important subjects, as there are several ways by which I am certain that great good can be done, more especially in two particular points, one in the further development of the fisheries of this Kingdom, and especially I might allude to the fisheries of Ireland, which are, at the present time, almost entirely neglected by the native population, the fisheries on the coast being almost entirely conducted by boats coming from the Isle of Man, from Lowestoft, and from Cornwall, and also by a large fleet of French boats. To give you an idea of how the development of these Irish fisheries might with ease be conducted, it is a fact that during the year of the distress in Ireland, a Canadian committee—and this is an instance of only one district—distributed £200 worth of nets, and in that year the people to whom they were given realized £1200 worth of mackerel; showing that if some assistance could be given, or some organization formed, the native population of the coasts of Ireland might be very considerably enriched, and placed in a very prosperous condition. (Applause.) Another point which I should like to allude to, which I think is eminently necessary, should be discussed, is with regard to steps being taken for the preservation of the lives of these hard working fishermen. (Hear, hear.) There are many cases in which lives are lost in the performance of their trade, not only by great storms in which their vessels are lost, such as the great calamity which occurred on the Scotch coast last autumn, but in minor cases, and especially in transferring the fish from the smacks to the steamers to carry them to market. I know that from one port alone as many as 20 lives have been lost in one year, but I believe there were only two in the past year, as far as I can ascertain. If some proposals were brought forward—some of which have been suggested to me—and thoroughly discussed, and some regulations effected by the fish-owners themselves, as there was some legislation in the matter, I am sure it would be a great benefit if well thought out, and measures taken for the preservation of these hard-working men's lives. With these remarks, ladies and gentlemen, I have great pleasure in moving the resolution. (Loud applause.)

"Earl Granville: Your Royal Highnesses, my lords, ladies, and gentlemen, I own that at this moment I rather envy the fishes that pecus mutum, which, as far as we know, are allowed to pass their lives in complete silence (a laugh). Besides, I am bound to say it is difficult for me to do anything but add water to the wine of the excellent speeches which have been made by the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Edinburgh. (Cheers). Nothing could be more clear than the manner in which the Prince of Wales put before you the principal points of this great enterprise; and with respect to the Duke of Edinburgh, I am sure you will all feel he has spoken with especial authority in the matter, not only from his general knowledge, but also from being—much more, I believe, than anyone in this room is—personally acquainted with the coasts of Great Britain and Ireland. (Cheers.) The only excuse I have for trespassing upon your attention, even for a very short time, is, that some of the most interesting moments of my life have been connected with exhibitions of different sorts, some having been more brilliantly successful than others, but none, as far as I know, which have not had a stimulating and beneficial effect upon some branch of commerce or trade. (Applause.) The other reason is, I am now unworthily connected with that office, and I think there are many eminent diplomatists now present, and whom we are very glad to see are here present, to promote what they consider a real international arrangement—(a laugh)—with that office in which the most difficult matters we have to negotiate are with respect to international arrangements regarding the fisheries of different countries. (Hear, hear.) His Royal Highness quoted some figures which are really stupendous, and which are difficult to take in. When you think of 550,000 tons of fish, it seems perfectly enormous. There is one branch of the fisheries alone which is quite remarkable. I dare say some of you have read an interesting paper by Mr. Bertram with respect to the herring fisheries. It seems that, with respect to the herring, it is computed, merely taking the common herring, and excluding pilchards, sprats, and whitebait, that the number of fish is somewhere about 2,633,000,000; put them at a halfpenny a piece and the value of the herrings alone taken in one year amounted to about five millions of our money in one year. The trade is one which has been of very great importance. The part which Her Majesty the Queen, the Prince of Wales and the Royal Family are now taking in this matter is following the examples of some very old Royal Families, indeed, it is said that Charles V. went a pilgrimage to the tomb of the man who invented curing, Edward II. took the greatest possible interest in fishing; and Charles II. we know went to Yarmouth in order to encourage the fishing of that important place, and was presented on the spot with four golden herrings—a ceremony which, from inadvertance I am sure, your committee appear to have neglected to perform on the present occasion. (Cheers and laughter.) There have been several commissions, and Goverment have always paid attention to this matter. There was a very remarkable commission in 1856, and you will readily understand I do not know any pleasanter reading whatever than the report in which Lord Hubbard, Professor Huxley, Professor Tyndall, and Mr. Caird took part in drawing up. As to the Exhibition, his Royal Highness has mentioned that there have been exhibitions held. There was an exhibition held at Archachon, which was very successful. There was an interesting and international exhibition at Berlin, which gives us such encouraging hopes of what this proposed exhibition will be. It appears you were extremely struck by what the Duke of Edinburgh said with regard to the results which we may hope will come from this exhibition. I think there is nothing more important than these; it may stimulate what will be useful in every way, politically, socially, materially, and commercially—that it may stimulate the development of the fisheries in Ireland. (Cheers.) There are other circumstances bearing upon our mode of fishing, possibly arising from local circumstances here. I am told our excellent neighbours, the French, use nets larger than our own, and that their skill is even greater than ours. I believe the Danes and Swedes show very great talent in the matter. I might have mentioned just now, that, whilst we have always had a great trade with Italy, there has been recently a trade sprung up with Germany, which has been of the greatest possible use to our fishermen. There are other circumstances which may arise; and if any particulars can be given to facilitate our work at the foreign office, regarding the arrangement of these international fishery matters, no one will be more grateful; and we shall be still more grateful if it prevented bad feeling between the fishermen of two or three different countries, for there are fish enough in the sea to supply the wants of the whole world. (Applause.)

"The resolution was put and carried unanimously.

"The Marquis of Salisbury, K.G., moved the following resolution,—'That in the opinion of this meeting the co-operation of all other countries will be necessary, to give full effect to the international advantages to be obtained from the proposed Exhibition.'

"His Excellency Count Charles de Bylandt (the Netherlands Minister) seconded the resolution, which was carried unanimously.

"The Earl of Kimberley said: Your Royal Highnesses, my lords, ladies, and gentlemen, the resolution which I have been asked to move is,—'That in the opinion of this meeting, in order to ensure the success of the proposed Exhibition, it is desirable to secure the support of those interested in fisheries in all parts of this empire, including its colonial dependencies.' I think, sir, that I cannot claim the attention of this meeting from any knowledge or experience specially of matters as regards fisheries; but I may claim your attention on account of the office which I happen at this time to represent. (Cheers.) My noble friend below me has spoken of diplomatic negotiations about fish; but I can assure you that fish, in their political characteristics, are quite as present on my side of the square in Downing-street as on that of my noble friend's. (Cheers.) Ever since the treaty of Utrecht, and probably a great deal longer, fish have been, I may say, the principal and most absorbing topic at the Colonial Office. You have heard how many tons of fish are imported into this country; I wish I could tell you—but I must leave you to conjecture it—how many tons of paper have been consumed in this never-ending, and probably never to end, controversy with regard to fish. (Laughter.) And this is not unimportant on the present occasion, because it shows, and strikingly shows, of what extreme importance to the nation is the industry concerning which this Exhibition is proposed to be held. (Cheers.) You may almost lay it down as an axiom that in proportion as an industry engages the attention of governments, so is it important in the eyes of the people whose affairs they administer, and therefore fish occupy, I think, a very important place now in regard to our colonies. It is unnecessary for me to speak of what is known to all, of the importance of the fisheries possessed by this Empire in the colonies. There are the great fisheries in Newfoundland, which we share with the French; those of Canada, concerning which the High Commissioner of Canada, whom I believe will follow me, is far more competent to speak than I am; but if there are those ancient and well-known industries in our long-established colonies, it is a subject which has not been neglected in our newer settlements. I was very much interested in reading lately a report on their fisheries, of a commission appointed by the New South Wales Government, which seems to have paid great attention to this branch of colonial industry in that part of the world. Anyone who would read the report would be extremely amused by seeing the immense variety of fish utterly unknown to us which swarm on its shores, and the great value of the industry and of the colonial fishermen who have entered into it; and I read, also, almost with alarm, when I know how easy it is in these days to transport fish from one quarter of the globe to another, being, with my honorable friend, the member for Norfolk (Mr. Birkbeck), interested in the fishing of the Norfolk broads—I say, I read with some alarm that there is in the waters of New South Wales a monster fish—a gigantic fish—I suppose a kind of great pike, which reaches the enormous weight of 120lb. If by any chance this monster finds its way to us, I will leave you to judge the fate of the other fish in our waters. (Laughter.) The colonies have not been still in the interesting subject of pisciculture. I cannot forbear mentioning a matter which everyone must feel the greatest interest in, for it is an extremely interesting subject of experiment, namely, the introduction of other kinds of fish, and especially salmon, into this part of the world. Trout has been successfully introduced; but about salmon there is some controversy, which I should be very unwilling to enter upon; but I have very strong assurances that salmon has been successfully introduced into the island of Tasmania, and I hope it will be introduced further in our colonies. (Cheers.) It is unnecessary for me to detain the meeting any further. I am perfectly certain that this Exhibition will meet with great sympathy and great interest throughout our colonies; and I join with all those who have preceded me in regarding this Exhibition as likely to prove of great advantage to the fishing industry, and deserving, I am sure, to be largely supported in all parts of the world. (Cheers.) I beg to move the resolution. (Cheers.)

"Sir Alexander Galt seconded the resolution, which was put and carried."

Another resolution, affirming the desirability of opening subscription lists to provide the necessary funds, was agreed to, and a hearty vote of thanks to the Prince of Wales for presiding closed the meeting.

Mr. F. L. James and his two brothers, Mr. Colvin, Mr. Percy Aylmer, and Mr. Lort Philips, who have been travelling in the Athara country, have been robbed of all their effects and means of transport by an Abyssinian tribe. They are now making their way back to Cairo.

SPECIAL FOR HOUSEKEEPERS.—It is the duty of every good housewife to see that she is well stocked with household requisites. There are many shops in this city that supply these goods, but for really good serviceable blankets, sheetings, quilts, table linens, carpets, &c., Riley Brothers' is the shop if you want to buy cheaply, and save money.—ADV.

The barque Mathieu, which arrived in port on Saturday morning, reports having met with fine weather all the way across from Dunedin, the vessel being kept at an average pace by the influence of strong S.E. winds. She arrived off the Heads on Thursday, the 8th instant, and was driven out to sea again by the terrific gale which prevailed on that night. After the gale had subsided she managed to fetch back again, and enter the Heads on Saturday.

There were two more arrivals from New Zealand yesterday, the Fairlie schooner, from Dunedin, and the brig Restless, from Lyttelton, both laden with farm produce. They appear to have made good passages, having had strong and favourable winds. Captain Pontson, of the brig Restless, reports two days' calms at the outset of his passage. A breeze set in on the morning of the 5th, when a south-east gale came on almost immediately afterwards, which took the vessel through Cook's Straits and halfway to Sydney in about three days. Light south-east winds then prevailed to arrival off the Heads at 3 a.m. yesterday morning. She subsequently came to anchor in Neutral Bay. It is stated that the barque Bell also sailed from Lyttelton on the same day as the Restless.

The Derwent (s.) left Rockhampton at 1 p.m. on the 6th, arrived at Maryborough at 1 p.m. on the 7th, left again at 10.30 a.m. on the 8th, arrived at Brisbane at 2.30 a.m., sailed from there again at 1.20 p.m., and cleared Cape Moreton at 5.45 p.m. on the 9th, passed South Solitary at 7.10 p.m. on the 10th, and entered Sydney Heads at 5 p.m. on the 11th. Experienced strong S.E. gale with high head sea to the South Solitary, thence fresh southerly and S.W. winds to arrival.

The Cheviot (s.) cleared Port Phillip Heads at 6.25 p.m. on the 9th instant, passed Wilson's Promontory at 4.20 a.m. on the 10th, Gabo Island at 10.48 p.m. same day, and arrived in Sydney at 11 p.m. on the 11th. Light variable winds and smooth sea prevailed throughout the passage.

The Casino, which arrived on Saturday morning from Dundee, is a new steamer, which has been built specially to the order of Mr. B. B. Nicoll, of this city, by Messrs. Gourlay Brothers and Co., Dundee, for his coasting trade in New South Wales. She is a fine handsome model, and carries a large cargo on an easy draught. The Casino has a saloon situated amidships, luxuriously furnished, and which can comfortably accommodate 41 passengers. The fittings are of bird's-eye maple and Italian walnut. The hurricane deck has a splendid promenade for passengers. The second class accommodation is forward, the entrance being from the main deck, and will comfortably hold 30 passengers. The vessel is fitted with a powerful steam crane and two steam winches, and has every facility for the rapid discharge of cargo. The decks are all of iron, and sheathed over. She is rigged as a three-masted schooner. She will carry 400 tons on a draught of nine feet of water. The engines are compound surface condensing, embracing both high and low pressure, and are about 70 horse power nominal. Steam is generated in a large steel multitubular boiler, by which a speed of 10 knots an hour is attained. Her dimension are: length between perpendiculars, 167 feet; beam, 24 feet; depth of hold, 10 feet 3 inches. She was launched on 23rd February last, so that no time has been lost in getting her completed and brought out to this colony. Mr. B. B. Nicoll superintended the building of this steamer, which makes the fifth boat built for him by Messrs. Gourlay. With respect to the passage out, she appears to have proved herself a first-class sea boat, judging from the report furnished to us by Captain Wilson, who is in command. He reports leaving Dundee on 18th March and arrived at Seaham next day, took in 357 tons coal, arriving at Plymouth on 23rd, left again on 24th, getting as far as St. Vincent on 5th April. On the passage from Plymouth to the latter port strong N.W. gales were experienced, lasting for three days, the vessel behaving admirably and proving herself a first-class sea boat. Left St. Vincent, after coaling, on the 6th; from the 28th April to the 2nd May light variable winds were experienced; on the 3rd a very heavy squall from W.S.W. changing to S., was met with, and next day a strong gale set in from W.S.W., with very high sea running, the vessel being swept fore and aft, continuing until the following day, when it abated; arrived at King George's Sound short of coal, on the 23rd May, and left the following day, arriving at Warrnambool on the 30th. Here the vessel was detained three days owing to a heavy southerly gale setting in; left again on the 1st June for Launceston, arriving at Launceston on the 4th, and after taking in a full general cargo for Sydney, left again on the 7th, arriving at Sydney Heads at 11.50 p.m., occupying 60 hours in making the run from Tamar Heads.

The Allowrie (s.), left Eden at 8.40 a.m. on the 10th instant, Merimbula at 11.45 a.m., Tathra at 5.45 p.m. same day; arriving at the company's wharf at 1 30 p.m. on the 11th instant. Experienced variable breezes and fine weather throughout the passage. Cargo: 219 kegs butter, 1200 cheeses, 7 tubs cheese, 47 bags bacon, 200 cases maizena, 61 cases butter, 11 bales leather, 20 bags oysters, 148 bags bark, 9 bales tobacco leaf, 6 bags wheat, 5 bundles skins, 7 bales skins, 26 bags potatoes, 55 bags cattle food, 1 cask tallow, 1 hogshead hams, 1 case honey, 5 cases lard, 2 cases cheese, 2 cases bacon, 1 case drapery, 1 bundle 5 bags wool, 8 bags beans, 8 bundles leather, 8 hides, 2 bags hides, 1 coop fowls, 1 case eggs, 5 horses, 68 pigs, and sundries.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

Saturday Morning.

In the Import markets business to day was characterised by nothing of special importance, and no changes in value transpired. Respecting the position of the Adelaide wheat market, Messrs. Morgan, Connor, and Glyde report on the 1st instant that business during the month had been confined to comparatively small sales to millers, who in view of the high rates ruling for bran and pollard were in a position to pay good prices for wheat. Farmers were busy with seeding operations, and hence but little grain was being brought forward at country stations; in the course of another month heavy deliveries were looked for again. South Australian statistics they considered inaccurate, the general opinion being that there were from 5000 to 10,000 tons more breadstuffs on hand than the figures supplied by the Government showed. All these circumstances tended to check speculation, and to cause holders considerable anxiety. The season had opened very satisfactorily for the growing crops. Rain had been general throughout the colony, and the mild weather and moisture combined had given the wheat plant a good start. Shipments to date had been 113,125 tons of wheat and flour.

Writing of the Mauritius sugar market, under date 17th April, Messrs. Scott and Co. observe that the weather had been all that could be desired for the plantations, fine, warm, sunny days having succeeded the long spell of rainy weather experienced since the beginning of the year, and the prospects of the coming crop continued in consequence to improve. Much, however, would still depend on the weather during the next three months, and on the effect produced on the canes by an exceptionally rainy season. Until, therefore, cane-crushing was commenced no reliable estimate could be formed of the probable out-turn, but with ordinary seasonable weather during May, June, and July, something better than an average crop (120,000 to 130,000 tons) might reasonably be expected. Next crop, if the weather would permit, would probably be commenced earlier than usual, and it was thought possible that new sugar might begin to arrive at market in July, but fair supplies of all descriptions could not be looked for much before September. There were still 14,000 tons of present crop in store, but nearly all of this was in the hands of two or three shippers to the colonies. What sugar had to be received could only be low qualities of syrup sugars, and, it was estimated, was not likely to exceed 20,000 bags, of which the greater portion would in all probability not arrive at market till close on the commencement of next crop. Of the present crop 109,000 tons had been received in town, 98,348 tons had been shipped (including the balance of last crop), leaving in store 14,000 tons. At the same date last year 112,000 tons had been received in town, 103,000 tons had been shipped (including what remained over from the previous season), and there were in store 15,000 tons.

Messrs. Melhado and Curtis report that a dividend of 2s. per share has been declared in the Band and Albion Gold-mining Company.

The following are the Customs duties received to-day:—

Spirits, £791 8s. 11d.; wine (still), £31 10s.; tobacco and snuff, £59; tobacco (unmanufactured), £216; cigars, £141 6s. 7d.; tea, £161 8s.; coffee and chicory, £63 12s. 6d.; sugar (unrefined), £1050; opium, £24 8s. 9d.; rice, £160 8s. 10d.; dried fruits, £21 4s. 8d.; malt, £24 19s.; hops, £3 15s.; specific duty, £191 2s.; pilotage, £46 10s. 8d.; harbour and light dues, £20 1s.: total, £2997 15s. 11d.

Mills, Pile, and Gilchrist report having sold on the ground, on Saturday, 60 allotments of the Balgowlah Estate, Manly, at prices ranging from 5s. to 8s. per foot. Amount of sale, £1160.

STATION SALE.

Messrs. Macdermott, Loughnan, and Scarr report having sold on account of Mr. R. Hewitt, his Corio station, situated in the Port Curtis district, Queensland, at a satisfactory price, Mr. W. Broome being the purchaser.—[Advt.]

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Attention to the following rules will save the writers of correspondence a good deal of trouble. We cannot undertake to return rejected communications. No notice can be taken of anonymous communications. Whatever is intended for insertion in this journal must be authenticated by the name and address of the writer, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

It is requested that all business communications, including advertisements, orders for the Herald, and remittances be addressed to John Fairfax and Sons.

Letters and other communications intended for insertion in the news column should be addressed to The Editor.

TO ADVERTISERS.

We beg to inform our advertising friends that, to secure insertion and proper classification in Saturday's paper, it is necessary that their advertisements should reach this office not later than 9 o'clock on Friday night.

MONDAY, JUNE 12, 1882.

The fact that after paying working expenses our railway transactions for 1881 resulted in a net profit of 5·31 per cent. is a matter for congratulation, but we are not sure that the making of this discovery an occasion for a lowering of rates ought to be regarded with unmixed approval. There may be good reasons for lowering the rates, and where such reasons exist it is desirable that they should be lowered. Cheapness of transit is a very important condition of mining and agricultural development. It is of little use for a farmer to grow wheat or for a miner to produce tin if neither can be got to market. If it can be shown that the rates for the carriage of mining and agricultural products are too high, a good ground will be established for bringing them down. Nobody will contend for high rates, or even for rates that make easy transit impossible. But rates ought to be shown to be unreasonably high before an attempt is made to lower them. A board that sat a very few months ago decided that our rates of carriage are not high, and that they are not more than farmers and others can afford to pay. The public were told by this board that the charges on our railways are even lower than those of the other colonies, and, in some instances, lower than the low charges on the railways of the United Kingdom; and further, that under the existing rates, agriculture was not only not discouraged, but was rapidly extended. When the board arrived at this conclusion our railways were more than self-supporting, that is if they can be considered to be more than self-supporting now. If they paid more than 5 per cent. last year, they paid more than 4 the year before, and it is 4 per cent. that we are now giving for money to construct them. It must not be forgotten, however, that a large part of the railway debt was negotiated at 5 per cent., and much of it at a considerable discount on that.

It will be said that there is a difference between 4·30 per cent. and 5·30, and that is true, but the difference between the two years may not be so great as these figures would seem to indicate. The calculation, it will be said, is made on the basis of the lines opened for traffic, but of late years we have been having a growing expenditure on lines not open for traffic. Interest is, of course, paid on the lines open as well as those which are unopen. Moreover, in their earlier stages, some of the unopened lines may not pay 5 or even 2 per cent. It may be necessary to keep the two classes of lines separate, but the doing so is calculated to mislead. Encouraging as the statistics of the department are, they merely show that we are making 5 per cent. on the bulk of our railway capital, not on the whole of it: or rather that we made this last year. It is by no means certain that because we did this in 1881, we shall do it in 1882. It is true that our railway returns have been improving for many years past, but even on the capital in lines open for traffic we can hardly be sanguine enough to hope for a return of 5·31 per cent. every year. A very slight circumstance may swell the returns for any single year. The postponement of a repair, for example, may bring an expenditure into this year that fairly belonged to the last. It would be difficult to say that we have a reasonable prospect of a regular return of 5·31 per cent., but there ought to be a reasonable prospect of this before we enter on a scheme of reduction on the mere basis of such a return. It must not be forgotten that a large amount of the railway receipts has come from the carriage of materials for the construction of new lines, and that this is a source of income that cannot be calculated upon in perpetuity—at least, not to the extent to which it has been available during the last two or three years. No one knows better than the railway authorities that it is much easier to reduce railway rates than it is to raise them. Those in whose interest rates were lowered this year, because the railways pay 5 per cent., would stoutly object to an opposite movement next year if they should happen to pay less than 4 per cent.

The fear, also, in a business like this is that the rates would be lowered where there was clamour to be silenced rather than where there were real difficulties to be removed. In such matters, unfortunately, those who have the loudest tongues are more likely to win than those who have the most urgent cases. It is very desirable that we should develop our mineral and agricultural resources, but in doing this the railway authorities have to avoid the setting off one resource against another. The Railway Department may be expected to study the interests of particular classes, but it has also to study the interests of the country as a whole. While bound to bring people's goods to market, it cannot be expected to do this at a loss to the public, simply because in regard to the lines open for traffic our railway transactions have resulted in a profit. A glance at the railway report will show that there are sections of the lines that are worked not at a profit, but at a heavy loss. It will probably appear that on one or two sections the earnings amount to 6 or 7 per cent., and that on others they are as low as 2 or 3 per cent. If the rates are to be lowered on sections of the latter class because we can show such a profit as the one named, it will be difficult to see how they can be kept up on those of the former. If rates are lowered they ought to be lowered fairly and equitably, and not simply to help one class to make money at the expense of another class. It will not be exactly just to make one section of the public pay high rates that another may have the advantage of unusually low ones. If, as we have already said, the rates are too high in any particular district, or in connection with any particular industry, let them be lowered. But the Board which sat a few months ago for the purpose of looking into this question, decided that they were not too high; that they are lower here than elsewhere; and further, that they are no more than those who agitate for a reduction can afford to pay. If the Board was wrong, the Department will have good reason for reconsidering the decision to which it arrived; but it may be doubted whether there is a sufficient ground for this in the fact that for a single year we made a net profit of 5·31 per cent. merely on the capital invested in the lines open for traffic.

The first of the Pyrmont claims against the Government for compensation for land resumed for railway purposes has now been disposed of, and there can be no ground of complaint that the inquiry was perfunctory. There was ample evidence on both sides to prove all that could be proved, and the jury had the opportunity of inspecting the land, and so getting all the assistance to be derived in that way, both as to the value of the land and as to the value of the evidence put before them.

Cases of this kind have a public as well as a private importance, seeing that public as well as private rights are involved. It is not to any taxpayer's interest that the Government should be fleeced, and that the cost of railway extension should be unnaturally enhanced. At the same time it is not to any taxpayer's interest that private property should be arbitrarily taken without a fair compensation. No one knows whose turn may come next, and even altogether apart from that consideration, we are all interested as citizens in the Government doing what is just. No one desires that our railways should be helped to pay a dividend out of robbery and spoliation, or that the Government should do other than set a perfect example of fairness in all dealings. Every citizen is interested in uprightness being the law of the land.

The first case dealt with had the advantage of being a simple one, as it had the advantage of not being complicated with considerations that often add greatly to the difficulties of valuers and jurors. It was not the case of an industrial establishment in full working order, doing a business to which removal would be a disturbance, with an established position which suited both customers and proprietors, and where the persons dispossessed would be set to the task finding other premises equally suitable. Nor, as the Chief Justice pointed out, was it the case of an old proprietor who had a family interest, who had been waiting a long time to realize the accruing value of the property, and who was prepared to wait still longer. It was a recent purchase, unimproved by the new proprietor, and admittedly a speculative one, with an eye to the construction of wool stores. All these considerations simplify the problem. What the jury had to do was to see that the person from whom the land was taken was not a sufferer by the arbitrary resumption of it. Counsel on both sides of course did their best for their clients, and endeavoured to lay down the principles that should guide valuations of this kind. But we imagine that few who have no personal interest in the question will dispute the ruling of the Judge that the possible advantage to be derived from railway extensions yet to be brought into existence ought not to be taken into account. If it were, the Government would be called upon to pay for a value that does not yet exist, and that its own expenditure is to create. This was really the turning point of the whole case, and determined whether the valuations of the witnesses for defendant or plaintiff should be accepted. A great deal was said about the convenience to wool stores of a siding from the Government line; but the Government is under no obligation to take the wool down to Darling Harbour, or to give sidings to private stores. Nobody is entitled to count on such advantages, or to charge the Government with the value which such sidings would give. The railway is not a public highway in the ordinary sense of the term. It is not a frontage which private owners can use, and no adjoining proprietor is entitled to calculate on a branch line being made to his land. The Government is entitled to make such a branch if it pleases. That is entirely a question for its own consideration. But to assume that such a branch is to be, to estimate the additional value it will give to the land, and then to charge the Government with a value that can only accrue if the Government does what is counted on, is obviously unreasonable. The value of land to which Government might make a siding is certainly its value without that siding, at least when the Government is the purchaser, or otherwise Government would be charged with the cost of its own improvements. The branch line that already exists has given a value to the Pyrmont land altogether irrespective of the recent resumptions and the intended improvements. The value that is still to be created in all fairness belongs to the Government whose capital is going to create it.

The different valuations put before the jury varied so much that it is only on the supposition that the valuators went on different principles that we can at all account for such wide discrepancies. The Chief Justice recited these valuations to the jury, and they ranged from £5285 to £17,000, which was the nearest approach to the plaintiff's claim of £20,000. Sir James Martin pointed out that the average of all these valuations was only £7616, and that that was £1134 less than the valuation made by Mr. Mills. But if we deduct from that amount the £790 that he had added for compulsory purchase, the difference between his valuation and the average of the sworn valuations was only £244. Of course we cannot lay any great stress on an argument of this kind, because it would have been easy, by multiplying the number of the plaintiff's witnesses, to raise the general average. It is worth noticing, however, that the highest valuation of the witnesses for the Government was below the amount named by Mr. Mills, and that, according to some of them, he had overvalued the land by nearly £2000. The higher values on the plaintiff's side appear all to have been based on an estimate of its potential value if applied to the construction of wool stores to be connected with the railway; and under his Honor's ruling that no such potential value due to the future action of the Government in granting sidings could be taken into account, all that remained was to estimate the present value of the land.

The Chief Justice pointed out that there was no law in existence compelling the Government to give 10 per cent. in compensation for compulsory sale. But there is undoubtedly in the minds of all persons a feeling that such provision is an equitable one in estimating the amount of compensation. It certainly would not be equitable to turn people out of their property and give them its bare value. There is always some trouble and inconvenience in shifting investments, as well as much anxiety and risk of making mistakes, and a margin of 10 per cent. is not an unreasonable allowance for imposing such risks and labours on a private citizen. The jury evidently took this view, for though they were at liberty under the present law to award a smaller sum than the valuator had named, they declined to go below his estimate, which included £790 as compensation for the forced sale.

At the meeting of the City Council on Friday last, Alderman Chapman moved,—"That immediate steps be taken to ascertain the amount of compensation due to the butchers for any expenses which they may have incurred in preparing slaughtering yards in the city prior to their licenses being granted." It is not necessary to refer again to the reason why those licenses were not granted. The proposal to grant them was simply a mistake on the part of the Council. It was at one meeting deemed advisable to permit the slaughtering of small stock by butchers upon their own premises, and at another it was held to be most necessary to confine all slaughtering to the abattoirs. During the interval between these meetings—and they are only divided by a few weeks—it is alleged certain butchers made vast preparations for slaughtering the sucklings without offence; now that the permission to slaughter has been withdrawn, the cost of those preparations is held by those interested to be a reasonable claim against the Corporation. The amount of the claim has not yet been stated. Alderman O'Connor said that he spent £1000 in the erection of buildings, which buildings are now useless; other butchers may also have expended thousands. It is possible that any sum from one to ten thousand pounds may be named as suitable compensation to the butchers for their losses. The amount that will be paid cannot as yet be guessed at, the Council having wisely decided to let the matter alone until the butchers put in their claims. Some regret will probably be felt that the aldermen as a body did not display the same caution in the beginning of the business. It is always vexatious to pay for mistakes, and any money that is given to the butchers in compensation for their losses will be simply the price of a mistake, or possibly of a change of opinion. It is very well that the Council has not determined to deal rashly with the claim—has not even acknowledged it as a debt that must be paid. The majority of the citizens will probably agree with Alderman Young that the matter should be settled in the Appeal Court, and some few may be found to hold that it would be a reasonable act of contrition and patriotism for those aldermen who suffered such a remarkably sudden change of opinion to disburse the cost of it without any appeal to the public purse. We trust that if the claim is seriously urged at all, Alderman Young's proposal will be ultimately accepted as the proper method for settling the dispute.

Two or three authenticated communications which we have published recently reveal a state of affairs in connection with Chinese marriages in these colonies which should not be permitted to escape public notice. In one of these communications the writer, Mr. J. C. Kirby, mentions several instances which came under his notice of Chinamen purchasing European girls as wives, and adds: "I had many Chinese under my observation for years, and I believe that they often purchase wives in this way." Another correspondent, Mr. W. L. Lisson, expresses his conviction that Mr. Kirby's statements are correct in every particular, and also states that he has known several instances, both in this colony and in Victoria, in which European parents have bartered their daughters to Chinese merchants and other Chinese for certain sums of money, the girl being, in each case, an unwilling party, and the result an unhappy marriage. Quite recently the alleged shooting of a Chinese storekeeper by his young European wife was said by the wife to have been the consequence of her forced marriage. The testimony of the members of the police force who have had experience in Chinese localities, both in the city and country, is to the effect that the purchasing system is very general, and that by the Chinese themselves it is regarded as a matter of course, being merely a perpetuation of the common custom of their own country. It is inconceivable, however, that the authorities here will tolerate the existence of such a custom among our own population. It would be a terrible blot upon our civilization that barter in flesh and blood should be permitted unchecked, and that the sacred and civil rite of marriage should be avowedly reduced to the level of a commercial bargain, even among a limited section of the community. The law regards marriage as such a serious undertaking that the parties cannot, even of their own accord, be disunited, and the greatest obstacles are placed in the way of those who would wish to throw off the bonds of wedlock. A young girl wedded to a Chinaman is doomed to be his wife and his property for life, for (subject to the usual laws of divorce) no power on earth can annul the bargain if the husband chooses to insist upon it, and thus it is, we are assured, that many of the wives of Chinamen rapidly sink into a much lower moral depth than that which they entered by their mercenary marriages. Perhaps one effectual method of check would be an enactment that would make parents punishable for the forced marriages of girls under age, especially where the object has been to make money out of such contracts. The Chinese and the depraved and avaricious parents of European girls would know then that the bargain would be an insecure one. The subject is one that closely affects the social condition of a section of the community, and merits the earnest attention of the authorities, both of Church and State.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Egyptian imbroglio has not made much advance towards a settlement. Dervish Pasha, who was sent by the Sultan to Cairo as special commissioner, has several times been interviewed by representatives of the malcontents of Egypt, but as yet nothing of a definite character has been done. He is reported to be treating Arabi Bey not only with firmness, but with some degree of asperity. This treatment may simply irritate Arabi and his followers without producing any pacific results. Meanwhile the British army corps at Malta is making preparations to proceed to Alexandria in case of an outbreak of hostilities in the Khedive's dominions.

Agrarian murders seem once more to be on the increase in Ireland. We chronicled a terrible case of homicide on Saturday, and this morning's cablegrams bring intelligence of another shocking murder in the west of Ireland. Three farmers, whose offence was probably that of honestly paying their rent, were set upon by a band of ruffians. One of the three was killed on the spot, the two others were subjected to a torture that is now commonly applied to rentpayers—that is, they were shot in the legs and dreadfully maimed. The usual addendum accompanies the telegram, "No arrests have been made." From other districts in Ireland further outrages are reported. Our cablegrams of this morning tend to confirm previous messages relating to the object of Michael Davitt's visit to America. It is understood that he goes there to restore the confidence of the Irish-Americans in the operations of the Land League, and to stimulate sympathisers with the Irish cause to contribute money more liberally than they have done since the Phœnix Park outrage.

When the cablegram was received on Friday stating that Lord Lamington had given notice of his intention to bring forward a proposal in the House of Lords this week to compel butchers to specify when the meat they offer for sale is otherwise than English, many were probably inclined to think that his Lordship was actuated by feelings of friendship for the colonies. But, to judge from one of our cablegrams this morning, it would seem that Australian meat is still in disfavour with the British public, and that complaints are being made through the Press that butchers sell Australian meat as English.

Sir Henry Parkes is still in Belgium, where honours are flowing in thick upon him. He is being hospitably received and much feted. On one occasion, in responding to a compliment that had been paid him, he said he hoped that by means of free trade the commercial relations between Belgium and Australia would be increased. He has had interviews with some of the leading personages in the kingdom, and has doubtless imparted much information respecting the position and future prospects of the Australian colonies.

The match between the Australian Eleven and Nottingham County ended on Saturday in a draw, the latter having 127 to make to win—a feat which did not appear very probable. It will be seen by Reuter's telegram that an awkward contretemps, engendering considerable bitterness, occurred in the fact of the Australians having been excluded from the Nottingham lunch. The matter was apologised for, but Murdoch refused to accept the explanation.

The death is announced of the eminent engineer, John Scott Russell, M.A., F.R.S., at the age of 74. For many years his name has been, with civil engineers and with a large portion of the public, as a "household word." He received his education at the Universities of Edinburgh, St. Andrew's, and Glasgow. After some years as a practical engineer, he succeeded Mr. Caird, of Greenock, as the manager of one of the largest shipbuilding and engineering establishments in Scotland. In 1844, he removed to London, where he constructed several steam vessels. He founded a "wave system" of construction of ships, after laborious research and study. He was the constructor of the Great Eastern, which is considered one of the greatest triumphs of naval architecture. He was the author of many treatises relating to civil engineering, and was the constructor of many works which will for years serve to perpetuate his memory.

The R.M.S. Malwa, with the English mails, via Suez, to May 5, left Adelaide for Melbourne at 8 o'clock on Saturday evening. She will probably reach Melbourne this afternoon, and the Sydney portion of her mails will be delivered here on Wednesday morning.

In another column will be found an abstract of the report of a public meeting held in London, on February 27, at which it was resolved to hold an International Fisheries' Exhibition in London, to open on the 1st May next.

Yesterday the weather was remarkably fine. There was scarcely a ripple on the harbour, but a gentle north-east breeze prevailed, and was only felt on elevated points round the city.

In conjunction with Messrs. D. and W. Robertson, iron and machinery importers, Sydney and London, who import the ironwork, which forms the major portion of the cost, Mr. W. H. Jennings, contractor, Sydney, has secured the contract from the Railway Department for the new railway workshops at Eveleigh, at the price of £38,000. The contract is for the erection of an arched iron roof in three spans for the New South Wales railways, Sydney. The work to be proceeded with as rapidly as possible, as it is necessary to have it completed within a very limited period.

The council of the New South Wales Rifle Association met on Friday evening, and concluded the consideration of the programme and regulations for the next prize meeting, for which entries will close on the 8th September, late entries at an advance of 25 per cent. on 2nd October. The most important alteration made is that all the matches, with the exception of the Nursery Match, are opened to the whole of the Defence Forces of the colony, thus placing the purely Military force on the same footing as the Volunteer force. The Queen's Match has an increase of 13 aggregate prizes, equal to £38. The Nursery remains the same as last year, Sir William Manning's trophy being added to the first prize. The Ladies' Match has no alteration. The three schools matches are enriched to the extent of £10 in prizes offered by the Hon. John Marks for the top scorer in each match. Captain Weigall presents his usual trophy for the Carbine Match. The All Comers has the same number and amount of prizes as last year, Captain Walker presenting £10 for first prize. The International Continuous (for merchants' prizes), Naval Brigade Garrison Gun, Challenge Bugle, and Company Representative matches remain the same, excepting that in the Challenge Bugle Match the prize is £15 instead of £25. The Members' Match has been made a two range match—seven shots each at 500 and 600 yards. The Grand Aggregate and Artillery Garrison Gun matches remain the same as last year, and the same may be said of the Press Match. The Skirmishing Match has been dropped, the council feeling that in the absence of any interest on the part of companies generally in the match they were not justified in continuing it on the programme. Two new matches have been added to the list. The first is the Engineers' Trophy, value £21, presented by Major Rowe, commanding Engineer Corps, to be competed for by five men who fire in the Queen's Match; and a Parliamentary Match, open to all members of the Legislative Council and Legislative Assembly, five shots each, at 400 and 500 yards; prizes, trophies value £8, £5, and £3. All the matches except the All Comers will be fired in the "prone," or forward position, and the council have sanctioned the use of movable lines on the sliding bar and foresap of the rifle. The remaining conditions are not varied from those previously in use. In all cases the entrance fees are the same as charged last year.

The hearing of the Darling Harbour compensation cases will be resumed at Darlinghurst this morning. The following cases will be taken:—Goodlet and another v. Minister for Works, Swain and another v. same, Robertson and another v. same, Lucas v. same.

A meeting of the medical section of the Royal Society was held on Friday last. Dr. Mackellar read a paper on the etiology of typhoid fever. The subject evoked considerable interest, and an animated discussion took place. The time allowed by the rules of the section for the meeting was exceeded by half an hour, and then a motion was carried unanimously to the effect that the discussion should be adjourned until the 16th instant. Twenty-six members were present, and ten of them delivered their views on the subject at some length.

An interesting lecture on Geology was delivered by Mr. A. Ritchie, to the members of the Teachers' Institute, at the Training school, Fort-street, on Friday evening. The topic chiefly discussed was the progress of animal life from remote ages to comparatively recent times. By means of excellent lantern pictures the teachers were enabled to closely observe the structure of the most interesting of the extinct animals, such as the saurians, the mastodon, the mammoth, the megatherium, the dinotherium, and to follow the lecturer in his inferences as to the habits of each kind. At the close of the lecture, Mr. Ritchie was warmly thanked for his successful efforts to instruct and entertain his audience.

The fifth annual meeting of the Sydney Mercantile Dramatic Society took place at Rainford's Cambridge Club Hotel on Tuesday evening last; the president (Mr. H. G. Benson) in the chair. There was a good attendance of members. The report and balance-sheet for the past year showed an increase in the number of members, and that the society is in a flourishing condition generally. It was decided to give a performance early next month. The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted in the unanimous re-election to their respective offices of Messrs. H. G. Benson, president; A. Isaacs, vice-president; J. H. Rainford, general manager; and W. L. Nunn, hon. secretary. Mr. J. E. Smith was elected business manager and treasurer, vice Mr. F. Stokes, resigned; and Messrs. J. M. Cantle, C. Hunt, and R. Rea were elected committee.

A lantern reading on "A Phase of Picturesque Ireland" was given in the School of Arts, on Saturday evening, by Mr. P. J. Holdsworth. There was a large attendance, in fact the hall was packed to overflowing, and those who came at 8 o'clock had to go away. About 60 coloured views illustrative of Dublin, Wicklow, and Killarney, were shown by means of the tri-unial lantern and the oxyhydrogen light, and descriptions were given by Mr Holdsworth.

The Surry Hills Fire Company having, after a great deal of trouble, secured an eligible site for their new engine at No. 300, Palmer-street, near Oxford street, have erected a suitable station, in which is housed their engine and the best appliances, so that in the event of fires in the neighbourhood the company may be able to render good service. The company works under Superintendent Bown, the chief officer of the Metropolitan Associated Fire Brigades. A team from this company proved victors at the four men wet practice at the late contest at the Garden Palace winning four gold trophies, although competing with some of the best teams from other fire brigades.

It is satisfactory to be informed that the girl Ann Phenan, who was brought before Mr. Dillon at the Central Police Court on Friday for protection, and was refused admittance into the asylum in King-street, was, later in the day, on an order procured from the Colonial Secretary's Office, provided with a shelter in one of the establishments for the benefit of the destitute.

A boiler explosion occurred at the Croydon Steam Brick Works on Wednesday last. A considerable amount of property was destroyed, but happily the explosion was not accompanied by any very serious injury to any person. The accident is more fully described in another column. The boiler and carriage of the engine were hurled through the flooring of an upper story in the building, breaking the strong thick tie beams, and bursting through the midst of four heavy iron water tanks, lined with brick and cement. They also tore away the rafters and galvanized iron roofing, and fell on the northern exterior side of the building, a mass of shattered iron and brass-work. They had been projected in all over a height of 12 feet and a distance of 30 feet from where they originally stood.

There is a season which arrives as regularly as that of big gooseberries or of snake stories; it is the season of football accidents; and that it has arrived in due course this year is notified by the usual record on the hospital accident book. On Saturday Thomas Tyrer, aged 25 years, residing in Foveaux-street, was received into the hospital, suffering from a fractured clavicle, received in playing football. As at the conclusion of a sensational chapter in a serial tale, it might be written at the bottom of the entry, "To be continued in our next," that is if past experience of the noble game can be taken as a guide.

The necessity of taking more than ordinary precaution to render scaffolding secure, and thus prevent life from being unnecessarily exposed to danger, was exemplified on Saturday, when two distinct cases were received at the hospital in which injury was stated to have been received by the sufferers through scaffolding on which they were working giving way. The first case was that of David Allen, aged 27 years, who had received injury to his back and head by, it is said, falling a distance of 15 feet from a scaffolding which gave way beneath his weight. The second case was that of James Murray, aged 48 years, who was at work near the General Post Office in Pitt-street, upon a scaffolding at a distance of 14 feet from the ground, and this erection also, it appears, gave way, and the unfortunate workman fell to the ground, and injured his thigh and right side. Scaffolding being for a temporary use only has necessarily to be constructed in a manner that will be as little cumbersome as possible, and of light material that can be easily moved from place to place; but surely it should be sufficiently substantial to safely bear the weight of those who have to work upon it. To the passer-by the spider-like structures that web in buildings being raised story after story often appear almost as unsubstantial as "the airy fabric of a dream," and the duty of those who have to walk upon the planking of these erections is regarded as being far from an enviable one. Certainly, where of necessity so much danger is associated with a work, additional risk should not be introduced by the possible want of care or use of poor or too light material.

Patrick Morris, a conductor on one of the Waverley tramcars, had a narrow escape from serious injury on Saturday, under somewhat peculiar circumstances. As the tram between 1 and 2 o'clock in the afternoon was proceeding on its way, having reached a point a little beyond Marshall's Brewery, a horse drawing a dray became frightened at the tram and bolted. Morris was at the time on the outside of one of the tramcars collecting tickets, and the dray passed so close that one of its shafts or wheels struck him on the right leg and threw him off. He was taken to the hospital, where he received medical attention, but his injuries were not of a serious nature.

A German official, deputed to report on the social condition of England (says the Pall Mall Gazette), is said to have informed his Government that the country is destined to experience before the end of the century a great upheaval of the forces of disorder. The prediction may be as worthless as are most attempts to forecast the future; but if by any chance there should be even a partial fulfilment of his prophecy, the present conduct of the authorities is by no means such as to encourage a confident anticipation as to the ultimate issue of a pitched battle between order and disorder, authority and anarchy. There is no occasion to go so far afield as the close of this century to see how utterly incompetent are many of our magistrates to deal vigorously or even intelligently with such slight outbursts of rowdyism as from time to time occur. Of this deplorable inaptitude there is a very glaring illustration afforded us just now by the utter failure of the Camborne magistrates to deal with the riotous mob which sacked a Roman Catholic chapel and hunted Irishmen through the town for their lives. The main facts are undisputed. A furious mob, led by a man brandishing a red flag, marched to attack their Irish fellow-citizens with sticks and stones. Violent assaults were committed, a place of worship was wrecked, and the town was taken possession of by the mob. After a time the police arrested the ringleader, and he was duly brought up before the magistrates for punishment. The presiding magistrate declared that "if the Irishmen had been met with and killed, he would have been held guilty." Evidence which would have sufficed to convict of murder was held to be insufficient to justify committing the prisoner for trial on a charge of riotous behaviour, and the ringleader of one of the most disgraceful riots of recent times was acquitted amid the enthusiastic applause of the mob.

The question of the carriage of wool from Riverina to the seaboard has (says the Argus of Friday) been under the consideration of the Railway Department for some time, and it has now been decided to reduce the rates so as to compete with the lower rates charged on the New South Wales lines. Hitherto a charge of 5s. 3d. a bale has been made for the carriage of wool from Echuca to Melbourne, providing that the wool had been river-borne to Echuca from any station on the Murrumbidgee or its tributaries. This rate is now to be reduced to 4s. 6d., the distance between Echuca and Melbourne being 156 miles. This reduction will also apply to wool carried by train from Wodonga, providing that it is the clip of stations north of an imaginary line drawn from the southern portion of the Urana swamp on the west to Gerogery station on the New South Wales line on the east, and east of an imaginary line drawn from Gerogery. If the wool is to be delivered at either Sandridge or Williamstown, an additional 6d. will be charged. The railway from Deniliquin to Moama is 45 miles in length, and being private property the department has no control over the rates of carriage on that line, which, for wool, is 2s. 9d. a bale. The railway officials believe that the reduced rate will be remunerative, as it is equal to 27s. a ton; whereas grain is carried the same distances for 18s. a ton. The trucks sent up for the carriage of this wool can also be utilized for both journeys, quantities of merchandise of all descriptions being constantly needed in the Echuca and other districts from Melbourne. In New South Wales the rates for wool are very low on the Southern and Western lines, and the trucks for the wool traffic have to be sent up empty from Sydney. An idea may be formed of the New South Wales rates when it is mentioned that wool is carried from Hay to Sydney, a distance of 460 miles, for 12s. a bale; from Albury to Sydney, a distance of 386 miles, for 10s. 6d. a bale; and from Darlington crossing to Sydney, a distance of 385 miles, for 10s. 6d. a bale.

Dr. Simms will deliver his entertaining lecture on "Faces and Noses," at Temperance Hall, Pitt-street, this evening, it being the first of his farewell course.

THE EGYPTIAN CRISIS.

Sir Henry has had an interview with MM. Frere and Orban, the Premier and Foreign Minister.

THE AUSTRALIAN ELEVEN IN ENGLAND.

[By Cable.]
(Reuter's Special Telegram.)

LONDON, June 9.

The match between the Australian Eleven and an eleven of the county of Nottingham was resumed to-day, the rain having ceased for a short time. Selby and Shrewsbury, the two not-out men of yesterday, went again to the wickets, but when the former had added one to his score, and the latter had increased his score to 24, play was stopped for the day, owing to the extreme inclemency of the weather. The attendance on the ground was only moderate.

June 10.

The match between the Australian Eleven and Nottingham County was resumed to-day. The weather was fine, and there was an enormous attendance. The wicket was heavy. The previous day Selby with 25, and Shrewsbury with 15, were not out. Both batsmen increased their scores, the former to 38 and the latter to 30. These were the highest figures made in the innings, Sheridan coming next with 16, and Gunn 13, not out. Four of the Nottingham wickets fell for nothing. The bowling of the Australians was generally good. In the Australians' second innings, the principal feature was the admirable batting of Bonnor and Murdoch. Both played splendidly and never gave a chance. Bonnor made top score of 39, and Murdoch followed with 24. Of the remainder, Jones alone obtained double figures. The bowling of the Englishmen was dead on the wicket, and the fielding was equally good. Spofforth, who played in the first innings, was absent, and only ten men batted. The total of the innings was 106. The home team went in again, and 12 runs were obtained, when the match resulted in a draw, Nottingham having 127 to get to win. The following are the scores:—

Nottingham.—First Innings.

Scotton, bowled	0
Barnes, bowled	2
Selby, caught	38
Shrewsbury, caught	30
Gunn, not out	13
Flowers, caught	0
Wright, bowled	0
Sheridan, bowled	16
Shaw, bowled	4
Morley, bowled	0
Sundries	7
Total	110

Bowling Analysis:—Spofforth, 1 wicket, 14 runs; Garrett, 5 wickets, 41 runs; Palmer, 4 wickets, 38 runs.

Australia.—Second Innings.

Bannerman, bowled	7
Massie, caught	1
Murdoch, bowled	24
Blackham, bowled	0
Bonnor, caught	39
Jones, caught	17
Palmer, caught	7
Garrett, caught	3
Boyle, bowled	0
Spofforth, absent	0
Sundries	8
Total	106

Nottingham.—Second Innings.

Selby, bowled	0
Gunn, not out	5
Scotton, not out	4
Sundries	3
Total for one wicket	12

An unfortunate occurrence took place yesterday, at which the Australian cricketers have taken considerable umbrage. A luncheon was given under the auspices of the Nottingham Club committee; but, from some cause yet unexplained, the Australian Eleven were accidentally excluded. Later in the day the committee offered an apology to Murdoch, and expressed their regret at the occurrence, but although the apology was twice repeated the Australian captain declined to accept it.

The Legnophone.—According to the Palestra Musicale, of Rome, Signor Lasina has invented a new musical instrument, which he calls the "legnophone," resembling the Madera y paya, so well known in Spain. This instrument, on the perfecting of which Signor Lasina has worked for years, is in the shape of a triangle, and consists of forty-five small rods of white poplar wood, lying each one on six short straws standing on a plank of deal. The musician strikes these rods with two sticks, as if they composed the keyboard of a piano, and plays with ease and accuracy the most difficult pieces of music. Signor Lasina intends to give a series of public concerts to introduce his legnophone to the notice of amateurs.

VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

The Commissioner of Railways has informed Messrs. Dalgety, Blackwood, and Co. that in future steamers working overtime at the wharfs will only be called upon to pay one-half the amount actually disbursed amongst the clerks and men thus engaged.

At the annual meeting of the Old Scotch Collegians next Monday evening, a motion is to be submitted recording the services rendered by their late President, the Hon. Robert Ramsay.

The wild dog nuisance is spreading around Donald, in the North-western district. One squatter recently lost 300 maiden ewes.

Mr. Kernot read a paper at the Royal Society last night, contending that the Railway Department engineers were at fault in estimating the levels of the Barwon flood of 1880.

A public meeting will be held at Ballarat on Friday, to protest against the Irish address, and the action of the Assembly thereon. Messrs. Berry, Patterson, and other members will be invited.

Almost the whole of the manuscript of Dr. Hearn's Consolidation of Laws Bill is believed to have been destroyed by the fire at the Government Printing Office.

Mr. Burrowes, Minister of Mines, visited Kilcunda last week for the purpose of inspecting the coal-boring operations. The Minister examined the men employed with the diamond drill. Whilst the officer in charge averred that he had passed no coal since 500 feet, others confidently stated that they had cut two seams, one at 800 feet, 2½ feet thick. The Minister is dissatisfied, and it is probable that a change will be made. Mr. Murray, geological surveyor, has been instructed to inspect the Cape Patterson district and report on its coal resources.

SUNDAY.

The East Bourke election takes place on Tuesday. The return of Mr. Harper, the Constitutional candidate, is regarded as a certainty.

A close watch has been kept at the Observatory during the past few days for the expected comet. Though Saturday evening was very fine, no traces were seen of it.

An extensive robbery of jewellery is reported to have taken place between Saturday afternoon and this morning on some premises in Lonsdale-street East, occupied as a shop and dwelling-house by Joseph Avinski, a dealer. The property stated to have been stolen is valued at £1500, and consisted of a miscellaneous collection, which included diamond bracelets, gold negligees, rings, alberts with diamond settings, several ladies' and gentlemen's gold watches. Avinski states that he saw the property, which was in a black leather bag, in his bedroom on Saturday afternoon, and missed it this morning. Besides himself the only occupants of the house were some relatives and servants. The police are inquiring, but at present there is no clue.

Mr. Aherne, barrister, of Stawell, died on Saturday night from an overdose of chloral, inadvertently administered by his wife, who gave him sufficient for four doses.

A boy aged two years, named Johns, was killed at Brighton whilst walking along a footpath, through a butcher's cart, which overturned, falling on him. Two lads who were in the cart escaped.

The weather is fine. The nights are cold and frosty.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

ADELAIDE, Sunday.

The R.M.S. Malwa arrived at 11.30 yesterday, and sailed at 8 in the evening.

The Chief Justice presided at the annual dinner of the Gardeners' Society yesterday evening.

S. P. Harges, charged with stealing in New Zealand, was brought up at the Police Court, Adelaide, on Saturday, and committed to prison for 15 days prior to being sent to New Zealand.

WELLINGTON, Saturday.

It is reported on good authority that the Admiralty have resolved to make Auckland the headquarters of the Australasian naval station instead of Sydney.

LEASING LANDS IN MUNICIPALITIES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I am directed by this council to request you to insert the following for the information of municipal councils and the public, and to ventilate the matter, with a view to the law being altered when the new Municipalities Act is before the House.

A grant of land on the Greenwich-road in this borough was valued for the current year at the low value of £80 per acre, which at 5 per cent on the capital value of the fee simple would, at 1s. in the £, pay £4 as rates. This land is bush and not fenced, open to Ball's Head Bay on the south side, and to Greenwich-road on the north side. At the Appeal Court, held at the Water Police Court on the 13th ultimo, the lessee produced a lease showing that he rented the whole 20 acres for the nominal rent of £4 per annum, which simply means 4s. per annum rates instead of £4; and the assessment was reduced to that amount. Now, if owners of unimproved lands take advantage of this state of the law to evade paying a just proportion of rates, by leasing blocks of land at nominal rents, this municipality, with about 9000 acres of land, most of it unimproved, would suffer to the extent of probably half its revenue, and the burden of making roads, &c., and thereby improving this bush land would be put upon the resident ratepayers, and those who improved their properties, which would be very unjust. St. Leonards and other municipalities would also suffer severely in their incomes should their landowners lease their lands to evade a just rate. I am, &c.,

JAMES ANDERSON, Council Clerk and Valuer.

COUNTRY NEWS.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our own Correspondents.)

LISMORE, Saturday.

896 acres of land were selected on Thursday. Over three inches of rain fell this week. The river is slowly rising. The weather is showery.

GRAFTON, Saturday.

The weather is now fine, with a strong south-east wind. 143 points of rain fell from yesterday up to 9 a.m. to-day. The Argyle, steamer, is off the bar. The City of Grafton was reported as entering Trial Bay this morning.

YOUNG, Saturday.

The report that Mr. W. J. Watson intends resigning his seat for Young is premature. Acting under medical instructions, Mr. Watson intends visiting England, and will return by the end of the year. A public meeting is to be called, and the question of his resignation left for the electors to decide. The weather is very fine, with cold and frosty mornings.

COWRA, Saturday.

1580 acres of land were selected here on Thursday, making a total of 4365 acres since the 25th of last month. The additions to the public school are nearing completion, and arrangements having been made whereby a demonstration in connection with the opening of the improved premises is to take place this month immediately after the holidays. Mr. Lynch, our senior member, who was mainly instrumental in obtaining the Government vote to effect the much required alterations; Mr. Campbell, the junior member; and others who take an interest in the school have been asked to attend on the occasion, when a number of appropriate prizes will be awarded to such of the school pupils as are entitled to receive them.

EUABALONG, Saturday.

Great excitement now prevails in Nymagee, owing to the fact of the telegraph wire between here and Cobar having been cut or destroyed in some unaccountable way. The police of this town, Cobar, and Dandaloo are away in search of four notorious men—"Tommy the Ambler," lately escaped from Bourke gaol, the famous Wild Wright, and two others, known only to the police. The general impression is that it is the intention of these men to make a raid on the town, and the terror-stricken inhabitants are much alarmed thereby. Anxious enquiries have already been made for ammunition, and the anticipated visit is the topic of the day. A strange adventure occurred in one of the shafts of the Nymagee mine. A boy employed underground at one of the levels, evidently curiously inclined, started playing with the rope of a windlass in connection with the shaft, and almost before he was aware of it, was clinging to the rope, and travelling down the shaft a distance of 87 feet at a fearful pace. Fortunately for the boy there was about three feet of water at the bottom, into which he plunged, and beyond a drenching, was discovered unhurt.

TEMORA, Saturday.

The weather is dry and beautifully fine. An important meeting of the Orange lodge was held on Thursday night. The police have made a seizure of scales and weights deficient in standard measure.

ADELONG, Saturday.

More rain is wanted. The weather is bright, with warm days and frosty nights.

HILLSTON, Saturday.

The first sitting of the District Court here was opened yesterday by Judge Docker. Messrs. Fitzhardinge, barrister, and T. E. Johnson and M. C. Comans, solicitors, were in attendance. Fifteen cases were set down for hearing. In the evening a banquet, presided over by the police magistrate, Mr. O'Neill, and attended by the leading residents of the district, was given to the Judge. Everything passed off satisfactorily.

ALBURY, Saturday.

Mr. Frew, the contractor for the extension of the Great Southern Railway to the Murray, commenced operations to-day, a large number of men being put on to the earthworks adjoining the present terminus.

BOILER EXPLOSION AT CROYDON.

On Wednesday afternoon last a boiler explosion, causing very considerable damage to property, but happily unaccompanied by any very serious injury to the lives of those in its neighbourhood at the time, occurred at the Croydon Steam Brick Works, leased by Mr. Oxley. The report of the explosion was heard some miles distant from the immediate scene of the mishap, and its effect felt by a vibration of the earth in the surrounding residences. The results of the accident were a cut and other injuries to the engine-driver, Henry Williams, the total destruction of the engine, and partial demolition of the large building in which it was situated. The engine was a double-cylinder portable one of 16 horse power, and had been in Mr. Oxley's possession for about from three to four years. It had lately been repaired, a plate having been laid on a weak place on the top of the fire-box. The situation occupied by the engine was the southern corner of the brick-making house, a building constructed of a heavy wood framework, covered with galvanized iron, it being in extent about 80 feet in length by 30 in width. On the afternoon of the accident there were about 18 men at work in the house and its immediate vicinity, Henry Williams attending to the engine, and a fellow-workman named Morris being a few yards distant from him. Five minutes before the explosion Mr. Oxley visited the engine, and personally tested the water and guage cocks. At that time the steam was at low pressure, indeed so low that the engine, Mr. Oxley states, could scarcely "get away." There was probably not a pressure of 25lb. As he was about leaving steam began to gather, and the engine was on his departure working at its usual speed. He noticed that it was "priming"—that is, ejecting water—through the cylinder and safety valve; but as this is no uncommon occurrence, special attention was not paid to it. Mr. Oxley then left the building, and shortly afterwards he heard the explosion, and saw its effects. The boiler and carriage of the engine were hurled through the flooring of an upper story in the building, breaking the strong thick tie-beams, and bursting through the midst of four heavy iron water-tanks, lined with brick and cement. They also tore away the rafters and galvanized iron roofing, and fell on the northern exterior side of the building, a mass of shattered iron and brasswork. They had been projected in all over a height of 12 feet and a distance of 30 feet from where they originally stood. The wheels were disengaged from the carriage, and blown in various directions, one weighing about 4cwt. being expelled to a distance of about 30 yards from the building. In an adjoining shed was situated a built-in boiler, used also in connection with the brick-making machinery. The steam pipe of this boiler passed in front of the portable engine, and was broken in the explosion, possibly fortunately so, the steam was thus allowed to escape which, with other steam generated during the panic, might have caused a second explosion, as in all probability the second boiler would have been neglected in the scare created by the accident. On examining the debris of the boiler it was seen that the iron sheathing on the top of the fire-box where the plate had been lately fastened had been torn in such a way as to cause a large aperture. Mr. Oxley states that when he visited the engine and tested the gauge he had full evidence that there was water in the boiler. He accounts for the explosion by supposing that the whole of the water was ejected when the engine began "priming," and the steam then remaining in the boiler became superheated, and was probably converted into gas, thus causing a pressure which it was impossible for any boiler to withstand, and consequently an explosion followed. Whatever may have been the cause of this accident, whether it was within the power of those having charge of the engine to avert the explosion or not, this occurrence is but one more example of the necessity that an inspection of land boilers should be made by some person appointed under Government. In this case happily no life was sacrificed, but that was due entirely to fortuitous circumstances, and by no means lessens the weight of the lesson taught. The necessity for such an inspection as we have referred to has been urged on many occasions, and it is to be hoped that the Government will not wait till some similar, but more terrible misfortune, attended perhaps with the loss of many lives, forces it into action, but that it will at once take steps to secure such an inspection of land boilers as may at least lessen if it does not entirely do away with the possibility of accident from defective machinery.

The Glossograph.—Iron gives an account of "another addition to the many scientific wonders of recent years. Herr A. Gentilli, of Vienna, has invented an instrument, named by him the 'glossograph'—consisting of an ingenious combination of delicate levers and blades, which, placed upon the tongue and lips and under the nostrils of the speaker, are vibrated by the movements of the former and the breath flowing from the latter. The vibration is transmitted to pencils, which transcribe the several signs produced by the action of tongue and lips and the breath from the nostrils upon a strip of paper moved by a mechanical arrangement. Similar to shorthand, a special system of writing, which may fitly be termed glossograpy, is produced, based upon the principle of syllable construction and combination of consonants. It is especially suitable for those languages the orthography of which differs least from the phonetic record of the apparatus. The instrument is self-acting in the fullest sense. Moreover, its application involves as little fatigue to the speaker as severe attention on the part of the person transcribing. In reporting proceedings in Parliament or courts of law, it is not necessary that the speaker should use the apparatus himself. Anybody may articulate it by repeating in a low voice the words of a speaker, which is sufficient for recording the signs. The glossograph may be recommended to those orators whose efforts to be heard are consistently ignored by reporters, and who will thus be enabled by simply adjusting the instrument under their nose to report their own speeches in spite of those objectionable persons. Seriously speaking, however, the glossograph may play an important part in telegraphy in the near future."

MINING INTELLIGENCE.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our own Correspondents.)

ADELONG, Saturday.

The proprietors of the Currajong Gold Lease, at Adelong one of the best claims on the Adelong reef, have made a grand discovery on the surface, the reef being 9 feet wide and honeycomb stone full of gold visible. This is the richest yet found on this goldfield. A crushing will take place in a fortnight. The claim is owned by Williams and Lucky, formerly of the Chief Williams Gold-mining Company, Adelong, and was in the market for £15,000. They would not take that now. The Challenger month's crushing was not so good as the last. Mr. Ellis reports having finished a crushing for Wilson's company, at his machine, No. 1 shaft, 290-foot level, 53 tons, 63oz. 2dwt.; same shaft, 390-feet level north, 41½ tons, 61oz. 18dwt.; 600-feet level north, same shaft, 62½ tons, 54oz. 4dwt.; No. 2 shaft, 250 feet, 30 tons, 30oz.; No. 3 shaft, 200 feet, south 63 tons 40oz., 17dwt.; 280-feet, south, 14 tons, 12oz. 3dwt.: total, 269 tons 363oz. 4dwt. All the faces are looking well, and mining prospects are improving so far as quartz is concerned.

GRAFTON, Saturday.

It is reported that a rich patch has been struck in No. 4 lease, Garibaldi reef, Solferino. One hundred and fifty specimens were obtained, and it is expected that they will yield as many ounces of gold. One pound weight of loose gold was swept from the bottom of the drive, after the shot which brought this stone down.

TEMORA, Saturday.

Foster and party have washed so far 400 loads, which went over 1oz. to the load. Several Sydney capitalists arrived by coach to-day for investing. The banks hold a lot of gold from late washings, which in many cases is very good. Great excitement was manifest at the mining registrar's office to-day, owing to numerous applications for abandoned areas and Cross's six men's ground, through the decisions in the late cases of Bourke and Lucas in the District Court. Some rich ground is reported to have been found at Upper Temora, also at the reefs at Barmedman.

Some fine specimens of golden quartz, lately obtained from the Belmore Gold-mining Company's lease at Ophir have been deposited in the Mint for treatment. All the shares in the company were taken up on Thursday within a few hours of the opening of the list.

Messrs. Melhado and Curtis report the yield from the Band and Albion Consols Gold-mining Company last week to be 484oz. from 1070 tons crushed.

Mr. A. P. Wood reports the yields of Victorian mines for the week ending June 10, as follows:—Egerton Gold-mining Company, 305oz. gold; Madame Berry, 478oz.; Loughlin, 313oz.; Black Horse, 136oz.; Dyke's Freehold, 83oz.

AMUSEMENTS.

On Saturday evening Boucicault's comedy, "London Assurance," was played at the Theatre Royal, Miss Blanche Stammers being the Lady Gay Spanker. The part is a favourite one with actresses of comedy, and as each one has her special reading of it, we have had Lady Gay sketched for us in a variety of ways. She has been pert, vivacious, merry, noisy, and sometimes vulgar; generally attractive, but occasionally a loud-voiced hoyden. Miss Stammers makes her essentially a lady, a laughter-loving, mischievous, piquante creature, who justifies fully the pleasant description given of her in the second act by Grace Harkaway; and reproduces with dainty grace a clever conception. Indeed, of the three ladies in the cast, she was by far the most successful, for Miss Lena Ellis, who played Grace, did so somewhat stiffly, as if she were not at ease in the impersonation, and Miss Playfair was overweighted as Pert. Mr. Wybert Reeve's Sir Harcourt Courtly was a well-finished study, his appearance being exactly that of the old man of fashion trying to defy age with the arts of the toilette, his gait being manifestly an attempt to conceal physical decay by affectation of youthful vigour; and his acting intelligent and effective. The scenes with Dazzle, Lady Gay, and Charles were very spirited, and never more so, than when some genuine emotion broke down for a moment the mask of humbug which the old beau generally wears. Mr. D. H. Harkins was not happy in the part of Dazzle. It did not suit him, and though he laboured very faithfully to invest it with the easy effrontery with which the adventurer meets and overcomes every difficulty, there was something wanting,—that bright vivacity of manner which the Dazzles of society must possess if they are to succeed in living by their wits. Of Mr. Cates it is difficult to speak too highly. His appearance was perfect; he spoke and moved like a gentleman; and his acting was full of spirit. His Charles Courtly was a living impersonation, so carefully finished that it evidenced anxious, honest study on the part of a clever young actor. So, too, Mr. George Forbes was a most effective Dolly Spanker, laughable in his entire subjection to his impetuous wife, and in the absurdities into which his obtuseness of intellect led him, but nevertheless a well-bred gentleman in look and speech. Mr. Gladstone made a bluff, genial Max Harkaway; Mr. Sam Poole unduly exaggerated the peculiarities of Meddle; and Mr. A. J. Byrne, as the valet, played excellently. "London Assurance" will be given again this evening; Lord Lytton's comedy, "Money," will be performed to-morrow and on Wednesday evenings; Sheridan's masterpiece, "The School for Scandal," will be played on Thursday and Friday nights; and on Saturday evening Sardou's beautiful play, "Diplomacy," will be revived.

At the other theatres no changes were offered on Saturday night, but the programmes were very attractive. "The Professor" was produced at the Opera House, "Faust" at the Gaiety Theatre, and "Neck and Neck" at the Queen's Theatre, and each was favourably received. "The Professor" especially won a large measure of applause, the acting being well studied and the scenery admirable. At the Gaiety, one of the principal vocalists suffered from hoarseness, and the others were in fair voice. The music was agreeably played, but in the scene in which the soldiers' chorus was rendered a strange mixture of costumes occurred, the band appearing in dark modern outfits, while the chorus singers were brightly arrayed in those of a mediæval or earlier period.

The first of a series of popular entertainments at the Temperance Hall was given on Saturday evening to an audience which fairly filled the hall. The programme was a well-selected one, comprising pianoforte solos, ballads songs, duets, and recitations, and its rendition by lady and gentlemen amateurs was very favourably received by the audience, several of the vocalists in particular being very heartily applauded. Mr. A. Massy acted as accompanist, and also played a pianoforte solo.

This evening at the Masonic Hall a complimentary benefit will be tendered to Signor Vittorini. Among those who take part in the performance are Mdlle. Charbonnet, Signor and Signora Fabris, Miss Pedley, and Mr. W. Smith. The concert is under the patronage of the Lieutenant-Governor, Sir Alfred Stephen.

Of theatrical doings in Melbourne, our correspondent telegraphs that Miss Louise Pomeroy appeared at the Royal as Leah, on Saturday night. At the Princess' Miss Jennie Lee played "Grasshopper" during the week, to excellent houses. Mr. Dewhurst is appearing at the Bijou Theatre.

We learn by telegram from Adelaide that "Youth" was played to a good house at the Theatre Royal, on Saturday night. Rainer's diorama of the American war was opened at the Academy of Music.

THE LAND TITLES ACT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Your correspondent "Spero Meliora," in his letter in to-day's Herald, fully endorses my views with regard to the working of the above, but disputes my figures. But surely he must have seen that it was the existence of the facts to which I called attention that prompted me to write, and that I adduced my figures merely for the purpose of strengthening and not for the purpose of proving my case. The cause of the delays may be just what your correspondent represents, but that seems to me to be quite beside the question. If I am done out of my breakfast, it doesn't matter to me whether it arises from my maid's dilatoriness, or from her having deliberately spoilt the chops in resentment of the scowls and indignities which had greeted her best endeavours to do the thing as it ought to be done. The result is the same as far as I am concerned. Bridget may complain of the incubus which serenely sits on the lady, but I am inconvenienced, annoyed, hungry, and, therefore, angry; and, as a true-born Englishman, must claim and expect my right to do a little in the grumbling line. It may be, as your correspondent affirms, that the delays of which people are complaining may be more properly attributed to the thorough disorganization of the department, and the want of the most ordinary modicum of administrative ability in its arrangement, &c., than to the dilatoriness of the officials; but that does not do away with the fact that those delays do occur, that the public are greatly inconvenienced thereby, that the Act is being rendered unpopular, and that those who have never wished well to it are waxing jubilant.

But "S. M.," while admitting the facts of the case, says, "I dispute the figures," and he asserts that a reference to "official records" will furnish some "very different" from those given by me in Tuesday's Herald. But what are "official records?" I took my figures from the columns of the Herald, and as the several lists of advertisements which I counted were signed by the Registrar-General, I regarded them as "official;" and I repeat what I before stated, that "if anyone will take the trouble to count over the 'notices under Real Property Act' which appeared during the first five months of 1868 and compare them with those which have appeared during the first five months of this year, this is what he will find — 266 (not 248 as stated in my last) for 1868, as against 68 for 1882." It must, of course, be understood that I have counted all the advertisements which appeared, including the duplicates and triplicates which may have come in the way; but as this was done for both periods, I suppose no objection can be taken thereto; and, as the files of the Herald are accessible to all (at the Free Library, School of Arts, and elsewhere), any one who likes to do so can readily enough check the figures which "Spero Meliora" disputes.

I consider that the Parliament which passed the Land Titles Act conferred an immense boon upon the community, and that Act must not be allowed to become a dead letter. "The impediments of maladministration" &c., of which your correspondent speaks, ought to be taken out of the way, and everything be done that can be done to make it a perfect success by all those whose motto is

DUCKENFIELD PARK HUNT.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR OWN REPORTER.)

WEST MAITLAND, SATURDAY.

The Duckenfield Park Hunt, the first hunt of the season, took place at Duckenfield on Saturday, when about 30 put in an appearance. The rain rendered the ground very slippery, but none of the riders sustained any injury. Harry Lodge acted as master and brought nine couple of young dogs into the field. The following gentlemen and ladies were present:—Mr. John Eales, jun., on Walkover; S. Williams, on Robin Hood; Walter Eales, on Countess; Alfred Eales, on Nigger; Wm. Eales, on Duke of Buckingham; W. Stacey, on a Yattendon mare; Percy Reynolds, on Belmont; W. Reynolds, on Wonder; R. Waddy, on Pirate; Miss A. Eales, on Duffer; Miss Moring, on Faust; Roley Pickering on Zoe; Harry Lodge, on Lady Poyner; and J. M'Carthy, the whip, on Myrtle. Pirate led over the first fence, closely followed by Lady Power, Zoe, Belmont, Wonder, Walkover, and Robinhood; and after a capital run of seven miles over about 20 fences, the following horses finished up in close company, Lady Power, Pirate, Walkover, Zoe, Belmont, Myrtle, Wonder, and Robinhood. Most of the horses failed to get through the run, but a chestnut pony well ridden by young Pierce, of Dunmore, went partly well. Countess, the Yattendon mare, and a couple of others fell, but the riders were not injured. The hounds worked fairly well, and Lodge hunted them with great judgment. The next run is fixed for Friday, when a large muster is expected.

BALLARAT COURSING CLUB.

MELBOURNE, SUNDAY.

The Ballarat Coursing Club's meeting concluded on Saturday. Owing to the scarcity of hares the events were not satisfactorily concluded. The Oaks was divided between five, namely, Gwendoline, Gunilda, Fastness, Skipaway, and Buttercup; and the Derby between four, Prosperity, Tom Buck, Harkaway, and Bora.

CRICKET.

THOMSON'S JUNIOR CUP TROPHIES.—The following is a list of the above, giving the names of the winners, and is exclusive of a handsome silver Waltham watch and chain which was presented to the official scorer, Mr. S. Tomlins:—For the greatest number of catches first round of matches, £3 3s., presented by Mr. C. Wigzell, won by Mr. Chippendale, of the Perseverance C. C., for a total of 6; for highest single innings score all through, handsomely bound volumes of Milton, Shakespeare, Longfellow, Byron, Tennyson, and Kendall, presented by Mr. F. A. Cubitt, president of the Our Boys C. C., won by Mr. C. Brown, of the Osborne C. C., for 121 (not out); for second highest single innings score (not being the winner of No. 2), £4 4s., presented by Mr. G. E. Jones, won by Mr. Croker, of the Surry United C. C., for a score of 86; for highest batting average (being the cup winner), Association Ground committee's prize of £5 5s., won by Mr. J. Searle, of the Surry United C. C., with an average of 25; for best bowling average (being the Cup winner), Association Ground Committee's prize of £5 5s., won by Mr. J. Thomson, of the Surry United C. C., with an average of 5.53 runs per wicket; for highest not-out innings all through, silver goblet, presented by Lieutenant W. P. Mulholland, won by Mr. C. Brown, of the Osborne C. C., with a score of 121 and not out; for first player reaching 100 runs in a single innings, best suit of clothes, presented by Mr. Summerfield, won by Mr. C. Brown, of the Osbornes; for first player reaching the century, counting all innings together (not being the winner of the preceding), trophy presented by Messrs. Lamb and Fairfax, won by Mr. Saunders, of Our Boys C. C.; for highest score in final innings of the match, Surry United against Our Boys, bat presented by Lieutenant W. P. Mulholland, won by Mr. A. Dennis, of Our Boys, with a score of 24. In addition to above, handsome meerschaum pipes were presented to both Messrs. J. Stacey and Hooker for special services rendered.

Our Adelong correspondent telegraphs that the South Adelong Cricket Club held a financial meeting on Friday evening, the result showing a surplus for next year. They played 13 matches, and won nine. The trophy was presented to H. Latham for the best batting average. Three trophies are promised next season by the tradesmen of Adelong. This is the first season of this club, which contains some promising players.

FOOT RACE.

A foot race for £50 a-side took place at the New South Wales Agricultural Society's ground, Moore Park, on Saturday afternoon, in the presence of upwards of 600 persons, who had paid for admission, while a number of other spectators viewed the event from the heights outside the south-eastern portion of the enclosure. The competitors were the well-known pedestrians P. Farrell and Frank Hewitt, the distance 50 yards, and the course a portion of the trotting track, which appeared to be admirably adapted for foot-racing. It was understood that the event was to take place at 4 o'clock, but nearly an hour was occupied in inducing some one to come forward as starter. Several persons were named, but they declined the responsibility. Eventually the name of Mr. Thomas Punch was called, and it met with the hearty approval of all the spectators who chose to indicate their wishes. Other preliminaries had then to be arranged, so that there was ample time for the laying of wagers, a practice which seems to be inseparable from sports. Hewitt was undoubtedly the favourite, and 6 to 4 was at first laid on him, but his popularity increased just before the race, and bets of 2 to 1 were made. All the preliminaries having finally been arranged, the competitors, at 5 o'clock, started to the report of a pistol, and Farrell won easily, breasting the worsted (which had been strained between two stakes at a height of about 4 feet) a yard and a-half in advance of his rival.

BOWLING.

The City Club and the Balmain Club played off their match for the Association Trophy, on Saturday, at the Annandale green, which resulted in a win for the City men by eight points, thus entitling them to be the holders of the trophy for this year. FOOTBALL.

OUR BOYS FOOTBALL CLUB.—A well-attended meeting of the above was held at the club's room, Pitt-street, on Wednesday evening last (7th instant), Mr. L. Robinson in the chair. Mr. H. G. Law was unanimously elected a delegate to the New South Wales Football Association, in lieu of W. A. Varley, resigned. An essay on football, played under the club rules, with some very valuable hints to players, was read by Mr. H. Wedd, of the New South Wales Football Association, for which he received a hearty vote of thanks. H. G. Law and W. Berkeley were elected captain and vice-captain respectively. Several new members were elected.

EAST SYDNEY v. WARATAH.—The New South Wales Football Association were well represented by having no less than three important matches last Saturday on Moore Park, the principal one being East Sydney against Waratah. It was originally intended to play this match on the cricket ground, but owing to the recent rains the turf got so saturated and sloppy that it would have been almost impossible to get a footing. An adjournment therefore took place to the bottom of Moore Park proper, where the goal posts were erected on a strip of ground about 160 yards by 70, a space too limited to show the real science of the game. A good game resulted between the two clubs. Sibley lost the toss, and the ball being kicked off by Rutherford was sent to the Waratah stronghold, where Terry, the captain of the red and blue, secured it, and dodging some three or four opponents sent it with a good kick back from whence it came. The followers of both sides got well on to the ball, and some pretty little marking was indulged in, especially by Livingstone and Bailey for the East, and Hand, Beattie, and Macdonald for the Waratahs. Being kicked out of bounds the ball was thrown in by the umpire, only to be seized by Livingstone and hurried on to Bailey. Here some fine play was shown by Terry, Hand, and Finn for the red and blue, and Butler, Randall, and Dobson for the East. Taken at last by Terry, it was sent well into the quarters of East Sydney, where Sibley secured it, and by a neat run halfway up the ground—Harper warding off all interruptions—kicked it to Turner, who gave it to Scott, and the latter, in attempting a goal, scored first behind for the men of the East. Terry, in setting the ball in motion, sent it well on to Hand, from him to Weller, who made a mark, thence to Finn, and by some good play between him and Parker, the first behind for Waratah was secured. Sibley, in kicking off, placed the ball into Harper's hands. From the latter's kick, Hand got a fine mark and sent it at once to Weller. Finn, who was playing well at the time, got the ball from Weller, and punted it to Sharpe, about 40 yards from the goal; getting a mark off the punt, he, with a neat kick, placed a very fine goal to the credit of the Waratahs. The East men, warming to their work after this, began to play with more vigour, rushed the ball at once to the other end, and scored one more behind for the blues, through Bailey. Started again by Terry, it got into the ruck, where it remained for some little time, and out of this it was dribbled through the Waratah goal by Bailey, thus making the game equal. Half-time was called shortly after, and, ends having been changed, the ball was thrown up by the umpire in the centre of the ground. Gordon, who had now been sent along with Hand to follow, began to show what he was made of, and gave the eastern boys all they knew to catch him; but, notwithstanding his grand efforts, assisted by the fine play of Terry, the ball found its way to the Waratah end, through Rees, Rutherford, and Randall. Dobson, marking it, gave Sibley one; and he, by a long kick, scored No. 2 for the East. Nothing daunted, the Waratahs worked with a will, and the way Terry, Gordon, and Hand played was something to be remembered, Terry's dodging and never-failing long kicks being the theme of general admiration from both sides as well as the public. The ball at last found a resting-place in the hands of Livingstone, and he, by a splendid kick, scored No. 3 for the East. Several behinds followed this in quick succession from kicks by Sibley, Harper, Turner, and Randall. Terry, who was eager to get a chance, rushed it on to his forwards, from whom two more behinds were added to the number. Shortly after this the game (a very fast one) came to a conclusion, with a victory for East Sydney by 3 goals 8 behinds to 1 goal and 4 behinds. The play of Terry was greatly admired for the Waratahs, also that of Hand, Gordon, Battie, Sharpe, and Finn. Those of East Sydney who showed most to advantage were Sibley, Harper, Livingstone, Bailey, Dobson, Randall, and Donaldson. The central umpire gave general satisfaction to both sides.

GLENHEAD FIRST v. NEWTOWN FIRST.—These two teams met last Saturday, on Moore Park. The game resulted in an easy win for the former, by three goals and five tries to nil. Butler and Allen were the respective captains. The red and blacks played a very fast game, and outstripped their opponents, who were unable to score any points. The touch-downs for the winners were obtained by J. Cleeve (2), Smail (2), Begg (2), Pierce (1), and Cains (1), and the goals were kicked by Butler. Those who distinguished themselves were:—For the winners, Messrs. Cleeve, Butler, Cansdell, Smail, and Begg; and for the losers, Messrs. Allen, Sharp, Taylor, Brown, and Mitchell.

Our West Maitland correspondent telegraphs that a football match between East Maitland and West was played at the Albion Ground on Saturday afternoon, under the association rules, the latter winning by five goals and seven behinds. The former secured only three behinds. Fraser Clarke secured four goals, and P. Howe one. Sefton, Butler, and T. Howe also distinguished themselves.

From Adelaide we learn that the South Adelaide footballers beat the South Parks by three goals to nil. The Ports beat Victorians by four goals to nil.

Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphs:—"A football team, representing the South Melbourne Club, proceeded to Adelaide by the steamer Victorian on Saturday evening. Several interesting football matches took place on Saturday. Melbourne against South Melbourne resulted in a draw. Essendon were defeated by South Yarra. A junior club of East Melbourne was severely defeated at Geelong, the local team securing 13 goals to nil. Carlton against Hotham, was won easily by the former. In response to a challenge from J. Rolfe, who claims to be the champion bicycle rider of Victoria, to C. A. Booth, an American bicyclist, to run any distance from one mile to a 1000 for £50 or upwards, Booth intimates his willingness to stake £100, but imposes a condition that the contest shall be decided by trick riding as well as speed."

STRAY DOGS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Some short time back I offered, in your widely read paper, some suggestions for dealing with these pests; and in doing so, I said that the system of compulsory registration of tattoo or fire brands for dogs, and the branding of dogs, as proposed by the Chief Inspector of Stock, would, with the numerous other benefits which I have mentioned, "have the effect of preventing the accidents (at times fatal) which are so frequently occurring through dogs running at horses;" and we have now, within a very brief period, to deplore the death of Mr. Peechy, M.L.A., from this cause.

It is high time, therefore, that immediate steps should be taken to prevent the occurrence of such sad accidents as this—not to speak of the innumerable losses and constant inconvenience and trouble which illbred, underfed, and uncontrolled curs occasion; and I would once more urge that this system of compulsory registration and branding be adopted for the following among other reasons, namely:—

1. It enables the responsibility which ought to attach in keeping a dog to be thoroughly fixed on the owner; for it fixes, beyond all question, the ownership of every dog in the colony. The effect of this would be that, when an owner knows he will be held responsible for every damage his dog does, he will be careful either not to keep a dog which is likely to cause any loss or injury, or to have it so secured that it will not get beyond control.

2. To fix this responsibility, the provision of the existing Dog Act, which requires that every dog shall, when at large, wear a collar with its owner's name and address, was passed; but we do not see one dog in six with a collar on, and that portion of the law has, for reasons which need not here be mentioned, become a dead letter. Some other means should therefore, be tried to effect this object; and I would again, for the many weighty reasons advanced in my last, strongly recommend the adoption of compulsory registration and branding. Every owner of sheep, although he should only have one, is obliged to register a sheep brand; and there are 10 times as many reasons for the owner of a dog being compelled to brand it with a registered brand as there are for the sheep owner being obliged to brand his sheep.

3. Then, supposing that a compulsory measure of this description is passed, and that it is strictly enforced, which it could as readily be as the compulsory registration of dogs now is, the existing stock pounds could be notified as dog pounds, and additional dog pounds could, where required, also be established by the petty sessions and municipal councils. These pounds would be very inexpensive, as all that would be necessary would be a low shed and a number of chains and collars; while moderate charges for notice to the owner of impounding, for sustenance, &c., would be sufficient inducement to lead fit persons to offer themselves as poundkeepers and find their own pounds.

4. On the establishment of these pounds, strict injunctions could be given to the police to seize and impound every dog that was out of the call or control of its owner, and by way of inducement a delivery fee of 1s. a dog might be allowed to the policeman or person impounding it.

5. On a dog being impounded, notice would be sent to the owner whose brand appears to be the last on the dog (these brands would, as in the case of horse and cattle brands, be imprinted in a certain specified order, so as to show which is the last); and if the owner, on receiving notice, did not pay the charges and release the dog within a certain stated time, say three days, in town, it would be offered for sale, and, if not sold, would be destroyed, and the Act would give the poundkeeper power to recover the expenses due on it from the owner, to whom the notice is sent.

6. In this way, while a dog on leaving his master's control could be seized and impounded, it would never be destroyed without the owner's getting an opportunity of releasing it; and many valuable dogs which, under the present law, would be lost or destroyed, would under that proposed be recovered. No owner who cares for a dog would begrudge paying such expenses as these to recover it, and no one has a right to keep a dog which would not be worth these expenses. Horses or cattle straying in a municipality are not only impounded, but their owners are prosecuted; and surely when the danger and nuisance stray dogs occasion are considered it is anything but unreasonable to require that they should be impounded, and their owners pay the expenses.

It will, I think, be seen that the scheme here and in my last shadowed out is a far more practicable and effective mode of dealing with this crying evil than putting, as has been proposed, a very heavy tax on dogs. At the same time I think the present rate is too low, and I would suggest that a fairly high maximum rate be fixed by the Act; and let each Petty Sessions or Municipal Council, as the case may be, put on any rate within the limit fixed which it considers necessary.

A DOG-OWNER.

P.S.—In your very forcible remarks on this subject you alluded to the frequency with which mongrel curs attack horses in the country towns; but this nuisance and danger is not confined to these towns. I frequently ride from one of the suburbs into Sydney, and I am safe in saying that on an average I am subject every day I do so to two or three of these attacks, even in the city.

PUBLIC MEETING AT JERILDERIE.

(BY A CORRESPONDENT.)

A public meeting was held at the Mechanics' Institute, on Wednesday evening, June 7, at 8 o'clock, which was largely attended. Mr. J. D. Rankin was voted to the chair. The chairman stated that the meeting had been convened for the purpose of taking into consideration matters of importance and interest to the town and district generally, such as the Narandera and Jerilderie railway line, Overshot Dam, &c., which required immediate attention. After remarks relative to the laxity displayed by the members (Messrs. Hay and Wilson) in regard to the wants and requirements of the district, the following resolutions were unanimously carried:—Moved by Mr. Horne, and seconded by Mr. Reanber,—"That the whole of those present form themselves into a Progress Committee to watch the interests of the town and district; five to form a quorum." Moved by Mr. Reanber, and seconded by Mr. Elliott,—"That Messrs. Rankin and Symons act as president and secretary to the Progress Committee, respectively." Moved by Mr. Johnson Quinn, seconded by Mr. Reanber,—"That the president be instructed to write to the Minister of Railways, asking him when it was the intention of the Government to call for tenders for the construction of the Narandera and Jerilderie railway." Moved by Mr. S. Harris, seconded by Mr. Harkin,—"That the president be instructed to write to the Minister for Mines, asking him when it was the intention of the Government to call for tenders to the long-promised Overshot Dam." Moved by Mr. Horne, seconded by Mr. Johnson Quinn,—"That the president be instructed to communicate with the Minister of Public Works, calling his attention to the dangerous state of the road leading to the society's show ground, and asking him to issue instructions for the necessary repairs immediately; also to Mr. A. Wilson, M.P., requesting him to urge our wants and requirements on the attention of the several Ministers, and to push forward the same as speedily as possible." A vote of thanks was then accorded to the chairman, after which the meeting adjourned.

THE PENINSULAR AND ORIENTAL FLEET.

The following particulars concerning the fleet of the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company, and of the new steamer Ganges, are from the Madras Evening Mail of April 18:—

"Referring to the P. and O. fleet list of only 10 years ago it will be found to consist of 44 vessels, including such ships as the Simla, Mooltan, Nubia, and Candia, for many years familiar to Madrassees on the Calcutta and Suez line. These 44 steamers aggregated 97,970 tons, and 19,140 horse-power nominal, with an average size of 2227 tons, and 435 horse-power per ship. Only 13 of these vessels now remain in the service, and of the commanders whose names appear in 1872 only 14 are still at sea. The fleet now consists of 50 steamers, with a gross tonnage of 160,268 tons and 28,450 horse-power, with an average size of 3205 tons and 569 horse-power. The latest addition to this splendid fleet arrived in our roadstead from London on Sunday evening. She is a new steamer named the Ganges, of 4196 tons gross register, and 800 horse-power nominal, 4000 indicated. Her fame appears to have preceded her, for, in response to numerous inquiries about the vessel, Mr. De Salis courteously notified that he would be happy to provide boats for all intending visitors, and a large number availed themselves of the opportunity and went aboard.

"As the Ganges lay at anchor off the pierhead the first thing to strike an observer was the enormous size of her two funnels, but this is about all that can be said against her appearance, either external or internal, and the overpowering size of the "smoke stacks," as our cousins across the water would call them, will readily be excused by any critical observer when it is remembered their size is significant of enormous boiler-power, and therefore capability of maintaining a high rate of speed. The ship's hull in its long and graceful outline gives promise that this will certainly be attained, while the slender raking masts add to the appearance of speed. It is not until arrival alongside that a true idea can be gained of the immense size of the vessel. Her dimensions are—Length, 390 feet; breadth, 42 feet 3 inches; depth to tonnage deck, 24 feet 9 inches; and to spar deck, 32 feet 10 inches. The main saloon extends right across the ship on the main deck, with large ports on either side, and is 42 feet wide by 50 feet in length. There are two tables which run down the centre, each of which accommodates 32 persons, and on either side under the ports are five small tables (10 in all), each arranged to seat six people. The centre of the saloon is open to the music saloon above, which gives great height from the deck to the ceiling, and is a magnificent arrangement for ventilation in bad weather. These two saloons are gorgeously though tastefully decorated. The berthing arrangements are a wonderful improvement upon the old style. Abaft the main saloon, or what may be called the family quarters, there are two, three, and four berthed cabins, bathrooms, &c., with a separate entrance from the spar deck and from the saloon. The cabins are large and airy. There are in all 17 single-berthed cabins, 22 with only two berths each, nine of three berths, and seven of four. There are 11 bathrooms besides those provided for the engineers and crew.

"The second-class cabins have only six berths in each, and the saloon is beautifully fitted, and two bathrooms are provided. The most noticeable feature about the spar deck is the midship house, which extends from the main to the after hatchway. The hurricane-deck above this is a splendidly open cool promenade, while underneath are cool and comfortable single and double berth cabins and the accommodation for the ship's officers. The arrangements for receiving and discharging cargo appear to be as perfect as the rest of the ship's fittings, and she is supplied with the most improved steam steering gear, Sir William Thompson's patent deep-sea lead, &c. The ship is, on the whole, a very fine specimen of marine architecture, and no expense appears to have been spared in perfecting the details of her interior arrangements."

THE LAW OF LIBEL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—"Bush Law," exercising his right of "reply" (I should have rather said of "surrejoinder"), gives an extract from "Lush's Practice" (edition of 1856), in these words, "And it may be noticed that actions for libel are within the statute of James." Now, I never said that actions for libel are not within that statute. I said, and still maintain, that such actions are not within the 6th section of that statute, meaning, of course, 21 James I., c. 16, generally known as the "Limitation of Actions Statute." There is no doubt whatever that actions for libel and for slander are within the third section of this Act, which limits the time for bringing actions "upon the case" (including, of course, libel actions) to six years "after the cause of action," just as actions for slander are within the two year period limited by the same section. If the late Mr. Justice Lush in the extract given by "Bush Law" meant that libel actions were under the "limitation" provisions of this Act, I suppose no one can be found to deny that proposition. I certainly have never denied it. What I deny is that the "costs" section—the sixth—of the Act has any application to libel actions. In support of my view of the law (which I imagine to be that of every practitioner who has ever given the matter a thought), I have referred to last edition of "Lush's Practice," to Folkard's Edition of Starkie, and to Chitty's Editors. Since the date of my last letter, I have searched many other authorities and practice books, but I have been unable to discover the smallest shred of authority for your correspondent's theory. I am unable to verify his reference to the second edition of Lush, because I do not possess the book, and have not been able to procure a copy.

However, in his last letter, "Bush Law," leaving the beaten track of authority, takes refuge in general principles.

"What are slanderous words?" he asks; and thus he answers his question:—"I submit that slanderous words may be written as well as spoken. I have looked up a declaration in a libel action, and I find it runs thus: 'For that the defendant falsely and maliciously printed and published of the plaintiff, in the blank newspaper, the words following.' And on reference to a declaration in an action for slander, I find the only difference to be that the word 'spoken' is substituted for 'printed.' These were both 'actions upon the case for slanderous words'—in the one written, in the other spoken."

If I rightly understand the argument of "Bush Law," it is that as the declaration in libel and slander differs only in the allegation of "oral" instead of "printed" (i.e. written) defamation having been employed by the defendant, therefore the expression "slanderous words" in the sixth section of the Act of James applies to a libel as well as to a slander action. Now, apart from the strong and clearly marked distinctions which have always existed in the law of England between slander and libel, which can be learned from any elementary text book on the common law, which distinctions are utterly ignored by such a line of argument as that of your correspondent, a complete answer is given by the third section of the Act under consideration, for it speaks of "actions upon the case other than for slander," for which the limitation period is six years, and, immediately afterwards, gives a limit of two years "for actions upon the case for words." If there were any doubt about the meaning of the expression "words," that doubt has been dispelled centuries ago by decisions, of which one was Law v. Harwood, Cro Car. 141, in which it was expressly decided that libel was not within that expression. If that be so, how can there be any doubt what the expression "slanderous words" in the 6th section means? Then again, if "slanderous words" in this section be claimed as a term covering libel, clearly all libels by signs, pictures, or caricatures (i.e., libels not expressed in "words") would be left outside, which, as old Euclid would say, "is absurd."

Yours, &c., TOWN LAW.

A STREET CAR WHICH CARRIES ITS TRACK.—The Accommodation Car Company has (says the Trade Journal) begun operations in Chicago with a capital stock of 1,000,000 dollars. The object of the company is to build and equip 1000 cars and put them upon the streets of Chicago. The car is the patent of Mr. Prosser, and as regards present appearance is a queer looking craft, which carries its track along with it, and to all intents and purposes is designed to traverse any and all lines of streets. The car, which is of the ordinary kind, is mounted in the middle upon a truck which sits on four wheels, each about one foot in diameter. These wheels run round the inside of two steel tires, each 10 feet in diameter, and which rest upon the ground, and are held only to the car by a set of wheel-clamps. The car is designed to hold 50 people, and the owners claim that the more it carries the easier it runs. It will be stopped in the usual manner, and two horses will be required to pull it.

HORSE MARKET.

MESSRS. WILLIAM INGLIS AND CO.—The market fairly supplied with medium draught and active cart horses, for which there has been a good demand, principally for teamsters, who bought largely for the Western districts. We had not many extra heavy draught horses to hand, but the few that we had sold fairly well; in this case, however, the bidding was scarcely so spirited as it has been for some weeks past, and prices not so firm; but for active cart and draught horses we had an increased demand at late rates, which rule as follows for all descriptions of horses:—Carriage pairs, with style and breeding, £80 to £150 per pair; buggy pairs, £40 to £80; well-bred saddle on harness horses, £20 to £40 each; useful saddle and harness horses, £10 to £15; active van horses, £15 to £25; horses suitable for spring carts and other light work, £5 to £10; light weedy horses, £1 to £4; extra heavy horses, £36 to £46; light horses, £26 to £35; cart horses, £18 to £26. At the Bazaar we sold the following horses, a summary of which we give—Extra heavy draught, 8 head, from £36 to £46; heavy draught horses, 24 head, £26 to £35; cart horses, 25 head, £18 to £25; well-bred saddle and harness horses, 16 head, from £18 to £30; useful saddle and harness horses, 17 head, £10 to £15; 24 head of light horses, suitable for saddle and harness work, £5 to £10; 28 head very light horses, £1 to £4.—June 8.

MR. T. COSGROVE.—The arrival of country horses this week was not so numerous as that of the week previous, caused no doubt by the very unpropitious state of the weather. There were some very nice horses from the coast districts, both north and south, the competition for which was very keen, and prices are more likely to advance than recede, as the market is very bare of every class of good useful animals, especially heavy draught and active cart horses, from which at the present time there is an unlimited demand. Upstanding strong active horses, suitable for van work, are also scarce, and when offered sell readily without pressure. In short, good useful harness horses of any class are wanted. Buggy horses with breeding and size sold this week up to £42; buggy pairs, from £46 to £80; no carriage pairs forward this week. Draught horses, from £35 to £47; for the latter price they require to be big, young, and staunch. Useful saddle and harness horses, from £12 to £18 each, spring cart horses from £6 to £10, very light horses from £1 to £4; town screws without condition unsalable.—June 8.

MR. GEORGE KISS.—The inclement and unsettled state of the weather this week has interfered to a great extent with the horse market, and prevented the arrival of several lots of which I had advices. The demand for heavy draught and light harness horses has been very good, but from the above-named cause only a limited amount of business was done. Heavy draught, fit to go to work at once, bring good prices, and light harness horses, well-broken young colts, continue to maintain latest quotations. Heavy draught realized from £25 to £40; light harness horses from £20 to £38 10s; saddle horses from £8 to £23; light draught and van horses from £20 to £25.—June 8.

MELBOURNE LIVE STOCK MARKET.

[MESSRS. RICHARD GIBSON AND CO.]

MELBOURNE, JUNE 7.

Fat Cattle.—A full supply came to hand, nearly 2100 being yarded. There was a very large attendance of the country trade, also a strong muster of town and suburban butchers. Late rates were well maintained for prime and good stuff, but inferior and middling, of which there was a large proportion, were a little easier. Tyson's Heyfield bullocks were the best yarded, selling at £15 a head. We quote—Prime beef, 25s per 100lb., or prime pens of bullocks from £12 to £15 5s; good, £9 10s to £10 10s; second, £7 10s to £8 10s; middling and inferior, from £4; best pens of cows, from £8 to £9. We sold—90 cows and bullocks for Mr. David Mitchell, Mooroolbark, to £6 12s 6d; 30 bullocks for Mr. J. Walters, Maffra, to £8 10s; 22 cows and bullocks for Mr. I. M'Quilkin, Sirvania, to £8 10s, the latter averaging £7 10s 6d; 21 bullocks for Mr. P. W. Pederson, Denison, to £7 15s, averaging £6 19s 9d; 21 cows and bullocks for Mr. A. Bland, Yarram Yarram, to £10, averaging £5 12s and £7 8s 6d respectively; 20 bullocks for Messrs. Campbell Brothers, Traralgon Park, to £11 7s 6d, averaging £8 6s 3d; 12 cows for Mr. D. M'Kenzie, Won-Won, to £9, averaging £5 14s; 12 cows and bullocks for Mr. G. Morgan, Yarram Yarram; 11 bullocks for Mr. B. Hobson, Yarram Yarram, to £8 10s; 11 bullocks for Mr. F. A. Devonshire, Yarram Yarram, at £8 2s 6d; 11 cows and bullocks for Mr. R. Goldsworthy, Kergunyah; 10 cows and bullocks for Mr. D. Scott, Fernbank, the former at £7 17s 6d, the latter £11 5s; 10 bullocks for Messrs. Brodie Brothers, Greta, to £9 2s 6d, averaging £8 15s 6d; 10 bullocks for Mr. J. Bourke, Flynn's Creek, to £9 14s, averaging £8 12s; 10 cows and bullocks for Mr. E. Wykes, Cowwar, to £10 7s 6d, averaging £5 8s 9d and £9 0s 3d respectively; 10 bullocks for Mr. J. Pooley, sen., Bechanga, at £3 15s; 9 cows and bullocks for Mr. B. E. Hawley, Cowwar, to £9 10s, the former averaging £6 18s 4d, the latter averaging £8 16s 3d; 8 bullocks for Mr. M. M'Hitery, Major's Plains, to £7 5s; 8 cows for Mrs. J. Bowden, Auburn Vale; 8 cows and bullocks for G. C. Burnett, Boodyarn, to £9 19s, averaging £5 12s 6d and £7 6s respectively; 7 cows for Mr. J. W. Davis, jun., Yarram, at £5 2s; 6 bullocks for Mr. J. A. Shaw, Yarram Yarram, at £8 7s 6d; 6 cows and bullocks for Mr. F. Eyton, Nar Nar Goon; 5 cows and bullocks for Mr. W. Burnett, Wonwon, at £6 5s and £7 respectively.

Fat Calves.—A very large supply yarded, viz., 300. Prices show very little reduction on last week's rates, best in making from 50s to 60s; good, 30s to 40s; middling and inferior, from 15s. We sold 14 for Mr. G. Morgan, Yarram; 7 for Mr. J. Martin, Alberton; 5 for Mr. D. M'Kenzie, Yarram; 5 for Mr. M. M'Hiter, Major's Plains; and small drafts for Messrs. Hobson, Devonshire, Pooley, Wykes, Shaw; prices ranging up to £3 2s 6d per head.

Fat Sheep.—A small supply to hand, viz., 8687, chiefly second class qualities. Sales were very brisk throughout, and prices, as compared with last week, show a rise of fully 1s per head on best descriptions, and about 6d per head on others. We quote—Best crossbred wethers, light weights, 20s to 23s (extra, higher); seconds, 17s to 19s; others, 15s up; best crossbred ewes, 16s to 18s (extra, higher); seconds, 14s to 15s; others, 12s up. No merinos forward worthy of note. We sold—1370 wethers for Mr. J. A. Macfarlane, Hazelglen; 853 wethers and ewes for Messrs. Robertson Brothers, Colac; 602 wethers for Mr. G. Carter, Leighroad; prices ranging up to 22s 6d for crossbred wethers, to 15s 6d for crossbred ewes. And have also sold outside—2200 crossbred wethers for Mr. D. M'Kinnon, Marida Yallock, Terang.

Fat Lambs.—Only 631 yarded, consequently extreme rates ruled for such as were suitable for the trade. We quote—Best, 11s 6d to 12s 6d (extra 13s); good, 9s 6d to 10s 6d; seconds, 7s 6d to 8s 6d; others, 6s up. We sold—106 for Mr. N. M'Millan, Oatfield; and a small draft from near town, prices ranging up to 12s 6d per head.

Store Stock.—We have sold, on account of Mr. R. S. Kinnear, 9681 merino wethers, delivered on his Overflow station; and also, on account of Mr. David Brodie, Harpsdale, 400 crossbred ewes.

Pure Stock.—We report having sold on account of the Hon. Wm. M'Culloch, Glenroy, the shorthorn stud bull Marquis of Underley, roan, calved 20th August, 1881; got by the imported Duchess bull, Duke of Underley 5th (41,438) out of the imported cow Countess 12th, by Bean of Oxford 2nd (83,129) out of Countess 11th, by Baron Knowlmere (33,057)—the Countess tribe is a favourite one at Glenroy—Messrs. Archer and Co., Gracemere, Queensland, being the purchasers. Also, on account of Hon. W. J. Clarke, Bolinda Vale, 20 shorthorn herd bulls; and on account of Mr. R. B. Stevenson, Tulloch, 30 shorthorn herd bulls.

MUNICIPAL VAGARIES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The letter bearing the initials "C. H. M.," which appeared in this morning's issue of your paper, brings to light a matter of great importance to ratepayers generally, and with a view to assisting "C. H. M." in his effort to obtain further information upon the subject, I now endeavour to explain my views upon the legality of the action of the Burwood Council.

The 172nd section of the Municipalities Act of 1867 makes it absolutely necessary on the part of the council to appoint valuators, and the council is bound to accept their valuation—which the Burwood Council appears to have done. Such being the case, the assessment was, I presume, "fairly transcribed" into the rate book, and except so far as the appeal court was concerned the valuators have done their work. The 170th section of the Act empowers the council to raise or reduce "the sum at which any person has been rated, if it appear to them that such person has been underrated or overrated," &c. And if the council did what is mentioned in time to permit of the rate-payer being served upon the person assessed, so as to allow the privilege of appealing, then the act is legal, although I think unprecedented, but not otherwise.

I am, &c., C. C.

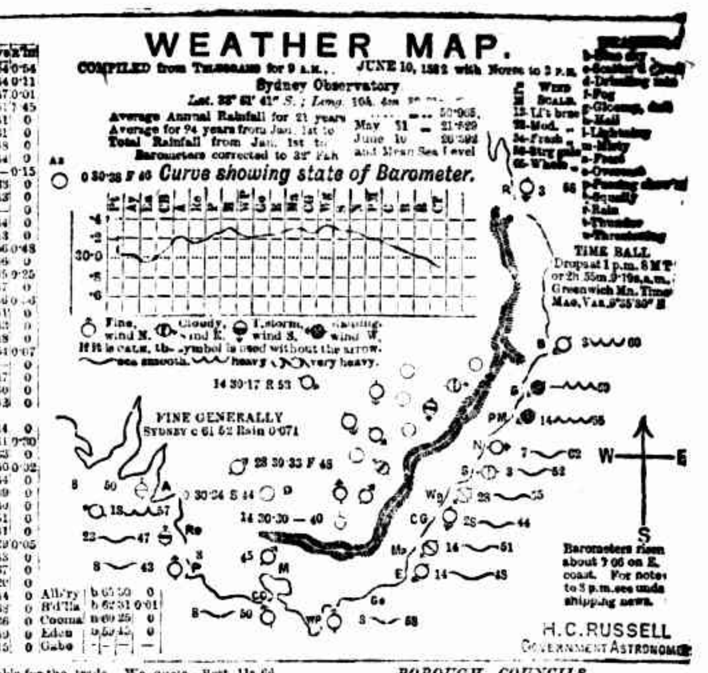

June 10.

P.S.—The course adopted in the present case is not a wise one. It would have been far better had the council referred the assessment back to the valuators for reconsideration, and suggested alterations where they were most necessary.

MARRIAGE OF MDLLE. SARAH BERNHARDT.—Mdlle. Sarah Bernhardt was married in London on Tuesday morning, April 4. The ceremony took place in the church of St. Andrew's, Wells-street, Oxford-street, in the parish of St. Marylebone, the bridegroom being M. Damala, a Greek gentleman. The bride and bridegroom (says the Times) presented themselves to the officiating clergyman, the Rev. Mr. Greenwood, assistant curate, at the early hour of half-past 10 a.m. They were attended by only one gentleman and one lady, and these, with the verger of the church, were the sole witnesses of the marriage. Mdlle. Bernhardt, the bridegroom, and friends in attendance, arrived in two hansom cabs from 56, Berners-street, the address given as the residence of the contracting parties. The marriage was by special license, which, when the party arrived at the church, it was found had been forgotten and had to be sent for. The ceremony had subsequently to be hurried over in consequence of 11 o'clock matins. The service was that of the Church of England, the responses being made in English by both bride and bridegroom, though M. Damala is said to be very little acquainted with the language. After the ceremony the party entered the vestry and signed the register, the signatories being the contracting couple, their two attendants, and Mr. Henderson, verger. Then the party returned in cabs to Berners-street. Madame Damala soon afterwards sent for a copy of the register, which she had neglected to obtain before leaving the church. The strictest secrecy has been observed in connection with the marriage. The Rev. Mr. Gibbs, in answer to a remark on the state of the marriage law, said that "in its present scandalous condition" a clergyman was bound to celebrate the marriage service on a license being presented to him by any couple who would reply pro forma to the few questions required to be put. Mdlle. Bernhardt is understood to have arrived in London from Naples on the previous day for the ceremony. After the marriage, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, she visited the Gaiety Theatre with M. Meyer, her manager, in order to have an interview with Mr. Hollingshead, who, however, is out of town. It is stated that the marriage will not affect the engagements entered into by Mdlle. Bernhardt to appear at the Gaiety Theatre in May and June next. M. Damala is stated in one quarter to be a gentleman of wealth, and on the other hand to be likely to appear at the Gaiety with his wife as her lover in "La Dame aux Camellias." He appears to be of middle age and full height, and is said to be a fine-looking man. Mdlle. Bernhardt was married in ordinary walking costume, the most noticeable feature of which was a very long and handsome sealskin cloak, close-fitting, and trimmed with fur. She left with M. Damala on Tuesday by the mail train from Charing-cross for the Continent, en route for Barcelona.

The French papers record the death of M. Henri Lehmann, at the age of 68 years, the painter having succumbed to paralysis. He was born at Kiel, in Holstein, became a pupil of Ingres, and made his début in the Salons of 1835. His early productions had Scriptural subjects. To these succeeded portraits in considerable numbers, among which were likenesses of some noteworthy personages. After a while we find him employed in mural decorations, among which the pictures in the chapels of the church of St. Merry are mentioned. In 1856 he did a good deal of work of the same class in the galleries of the Hôtel de Ville, Paris, and other public buildings in the same city. M. Lehmann was a frequent contributor to the Salons, and obtained a second-class medal in 1835, and a first-class medal in 1840; of the latter he received rappels in 1848 and 1855. He became a Knight of the Legion of Honour in 1846, and officer of the same body in 1853. In 1861 he succeeded M. Alaux in the Académie des Beaux-Arts. Professor in the Ecole des Beaux-Arts in 1875, he soon after resigned that post on account of ill health. M. Maurice Borrel, the French medalist, is dead.

BOROUGH COUNCILS.

GLEBE.—Meeting held on 3rd June, when the following resolutions were rescinded, viz.:—1. "That this council will tar, pave, or tile the footpaths of the borough, on condition that the ratepayers requiring tar paving to be done shall pay one-half the cost of same when giving the order to the council clerk." 2. A resolution passed on December 16, 1878, for the adoption of levels and sections of the Lyndhurst College Estate. The ordinary meeting of the council was afterwards held. Present—The Mayor (Alderman Chapman) presiding, and Aldermen Thornley, Lucas, Dunn, Wearne, Elphinstone, Graham, Turner, Cary, and Bull. Minutes of last ordinary meeting read and confirmed. Letters read and received:—Department of Public Instruction, relative to tar-paving the pathway around the Public school; Secretary G. P. O., stating that the Postmaster-General had selected as the most suitable site for a post and telegraph office, a piece of land at the corner of Glebe Point-road and Denman-street; Principal Under-Secretary, intimating that the new code of amended bylaws had been confirmed by his Excellency the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, and published in the Government Gazette of 3rd May, 1882. Under-Secretary for Mines, re the resumption of certain land around Wentworth Park, to form a road, to the effect that the land in question is about to be dealt with by the Surveyor-General in connection with claims for compensation under the Blackwattle Bay Land Reclamation Act of 1873. Circular from the Mayor of Burwood, requesting the co-operation of the council in endeavouring to have the City of Sydney Improvement Act extended to the suburbs. Declined. Council clerk, Camperdown, requesting that delegates from the Glebe Council be appointed to unite with his council to interview the Minister for Works, with a view of getting a culvert over Orphan School Creek at the bottom of Parramatta Old Road. Declined. Letters were read from Messrs. Hill and Haskins re supply of blue metal; Mr. George Butterfield, offering to execute a map of the borough. The finance committee were instructed to deal with letters from Mr. Thomas West and Joseph Bracken, and the improvement committee with communications from Rev. George Sutherland and Mr. J. H. Fludder. The Principal Under-Secretary wrote, enclosing the Government sanction to the council to borrow £10,000 on the rates of the borough, to be spent on permanent improvements therein. Reports: Finance of May 10, 1882, showing payments to the amount of £704 18s. 6d.. Adopted. Improvement committee of May 10, 1882, recommending that various permanent works throughout the borough be carried out. Adopted. Reports were read from the overseer and inspector of nuisances. Motions.—By Alderman Bull, "That it be referred to the improvement committee—1. To report on the cost and necessity of making an entrance to Hegarty-street. 2. Of ballasting part of Woolley-street and metalling the whole street with white metal." Seconded by Alderman Cary, and carried. By Alderman Cary, "That it be referred to the improvement committee—1. To report on the necessity and cost of kerbing and guttering Avon-street on both sides, from Ferry-road to Forsyth-street. 2. Kerbing and guttering Mansfield-street, from Toxteth-road to Wigram-road, on the west south-side. 3. Metalling Rose-street, from Pyrmont Bridge-road to Toxteth Park gate." Seconded by Alderman Bull, and carried. "5. That the letter and plans submitted by Messrs. Thornley and Smedley, architects, together with the foreman's report thereon, be adopted." Seconded by Alderman Bull, and carried. By Alderman Wearne,—"That it be referred to the improvement committee to report—1. On the cost and necessity of metalling Broughton-street from Cowper to Mitchell streets. 2. Kerb and guttering Stirling-street, from Elger to Water streets on the east side." Seconded by Alderman Dunn and Thornley, and carried. By Alderman Elphinstone,—"That it be referred to the improvement committee to report on the cost and necessity of lifting the gutter stones on the south side of Glebe-road, from Mitchell-street to Derby-place, and re-laying the same in a better manner." Seconded by Alderman Dunn, and carried. By Alderman Thornley,—"That it be referred to the improvement committee to report on the cost and necessity of repairing with metal Franklyn-place, from Francis to Glebe streets." Seconded by Alderman Wearne, and carried.—D. J. O'CONNOR, Council Clerk.

MACDONALDTOWN.—Meeting held on 5th June. Present—The Mayor (Alderman James Bryan), Aldermen Horsfall, Eve, Wright, and Fallick. Minutes of previous meeting read and confirmed. Correspondence: Letter from Engineer-in-Chief, informing the council, in answer to their letter, that no more land would be resumed in Burren-street other than that marked out on the plan of reference. Received. From Australian Gaslight Company re a reduction of the price of lamps to £7 10s each per annum on an order being given for 40. Received. From Henry Levett, complaining of the choking of pipes at the end of Malcolm-street, which caused the water to overflow and damage his property. Received and referred to committee for works. From Messrs. Goddard and Croker, re drain in Septimus-street. Received and referred to committee for works. Letter of resignation from Mr. Henry Knight, alderman of the council. Received. Letter from the Mayor of Burwood, soliciting the co-operation of this council in obtaining an extension of the City of Sydney Improvement Act, 42 Vic., No. 25, to the suburbs, and requesting the council to appoint delegates for an early conference. Received. Tenders for asphalting the footpaths of the borough were then read, and ordered to stand over for the consideration of the committee for works. Finances: Accounts amounting to £169 14s. 2d. were adopted and passed for payment. Motions: By Alderman Wright,—"1. That an open crossing be laid at the junction of Malcolm and Septimus streets." Received and referred to the committee for works. "2. That 200 tons blue metal boulders be ordered as soon as possible." Seconded by Alderman Fallick, and carried. Questions by Alderman Horsfall—1. Has the mayor received an answer to the council's letter re the alignment of the streets of the Malcolm Estate. 2. Have any further steps been taken towards obtaining a formal dedication of the public park. The Mayor answered: No. 1, no. No. 2, none whatever; but he would instruct the council clerk to write in both cases, and see what could be done.—ROBERT CAURTON, Council Clerk.

NORTH WILLOUGHBY.—Meeting held on 3rd June. Present—Aldermen Best, Seldon, Johnson, and Fleming; Alderman Best in the chair. Minutes of previous meeting read and confirmed. Correspondence: Letters from the municipal councils of East St. Leonards, Victoria, and Manly, agreeing to co-operate with this council re tramway extension to Manly and Lane Cove, &c. Letter and tracing from Department of Mines showing proposed alteration of Burns' Bay-road. The council clerk to make estimate of cost of forming proposed new road about a mile in length. Letter from Mr. James Stuart, with reference to his former letter. Received. The reason why his former letter was not received was because he is not a resident or ratepayer, and he did not state his address. Letter from Mr. G. Anderson, complaining of the assessment. Council have no power to alter it. Letter from Mayor of Burwood, re extension of City Improvement Act to that suburb. Reserved for consideration. From Mr. Butterfield, surveyor, inviting attention to a map of Macdonaldtown. Received, to be considered. From S. L. Recorder, asking to be informed of time and place of meetings, &c. Received; information to be given. Letter and tracing to Department of Mines, asking to have road on south side of Mrs. Fuller's proclaimed a chain wide. Accounts amounting to £86 for municipal works, &c., and £3 6s. for improvements to recreation reserve, were passed for payment. Motion by Alderman Best, re waiting-room for Greenwich Wharf, was withdrawn, as he said the site of the wharf was objected to. Council clerk directed to make plan and specification for a new wharf at Greenwich. Moved by Alderman Fleming, for the Mayor,—"That a water table be made and path raised next Mrs. Broadfoot's property in Bushurst-street, to prevent overflow of water on the lands of Messrs. Lee, Preslaw, and Rennard." Referred to the works committee. The tender of John Robinson to cut hill and form portion of Flat Rock-road for £30 was accepted. The tender of Reubin Smith to form 20 chains of Nichols Bay-road, at 20s. per chain, was accepted. Tenders to be invited for gravel for the Flat Rock-road.—JAMES ANDERSON, Council Clerk.

Regarding an important experiment in electric lighting, which has been made in Table Bay, the Cape Times of Monday, April 24 says:—"On Saturday evening the harbour was for the first time illuminated by the electric light, and those who had an opportunity of seeing the docks under the brilliant and novel display had no difficulty in appreciating the great improvement that will be effected when the new system of lighting is fully introduced. The Harbour Board have decided to have a month's trial of the light, and if the result proves satisfactory, there can be little doubt as to the system being permanently maintained, as even the preliminary experiment on Saturday evening clearly showed the advantage of the electric over the gaslight. It is several months since the Harbour Board workmen commenced to erect the tall lamp-posts required for giving the light the elevation necessary for throwing the rays over a wide area. Sixteen posts have been erected at various points round the docks, eight of them being 23 feet in height, and eight 18 feet. The system of lighting employed is the Brush patent, which is being extensively adopted for outside illumination. Motive power is supplied by a 12 horse-power portable engine placed in one part of the engine-house of the new graving dock. Here is also placed the dynamo-electric machine—a very large and powerful one—which generates the electric current, and communicates it to the lamps through the insulated wire connecting them. Each of the lamps is provided with four carbons. Only two of these burn at one time, and when they are done the other two are lighted by a very ingenious contrivance, and by this means a continuous light can be maintained for 16 hours. Everything being ready on Saturday afternoon, a trial was made before dusk, but of course the light was not properly seen, and it was not continued long. At 9 o'clock the current was again turned on, and the gloom of the docks was speedily dispelled by the bright glare of the electric lamps. The experiment lasted an hour and a half, and during that time the light remained wonderfully steady and bright. Of course there was flickering now and then, but even when the light from the carbons faded slightly there could be no question as to its superiority over its ancient rival, the gas. The gas lamps were kept alight during the experiment, and they had a very 'tallow dip' appearance compared with the bright and attractive light which threatens to supersede them. It is expected that the electric light will be in full operation on Tuesday night."

OUR BRISBANE LETTER.

BRISBANE, JUNE 5.

The date of the opening of Parliament has been definitely fixed for the 4th July, and political forecasts are already furnishing subjects for the newspapers. Ministers are, as I told you before, anticipating a quiet working session; but I am credibly informed they have taken a step which will most probably disappoint their expectations. Your readers know already that the Queenslanders are exceedingly sensitive on the subject of coloured labour. They have consented to tolerate kanakas after many fierce outbursts of dislike, and only under a compromise which strictly limits the employment of the islanders to a narrow belt of the coast, and to tropical cultivation. The proposal to introduce Indian coolies has not been at all well received. Many very emphatic protests have been publicly made against it, and very few public men have ventured to tell audiences that they were in favour of the proposal. Yet, I hear that Ministers have determined to make all the necessary arrangements—that, indeed, they have concluded them—and in such a manner as to dispense with the consent of Parliament. They take their stand on an Act authorizing the introduction of coolies, which has been allowed to remain on the statute book since the early days of the colony. When it was passed, Queensland had only a fractional part of its present population, even hardly explored, and only very partially occupied. The question of coloured labour, regarded as a feature of public policy, had hardly arisen, and the circumstances of the colony were so different from those of the present time, that nothing which was done then can fairly be regarded as an indication of the will of the people of Queensland now. The Act also fell stillborn. The Indian Government would not allow the export of coolies unless we appointed a responsible agent in India; and the Government of the day never thought it advisable to appoint one. Kanakas were introduced, and coolies no longer sought for. The Act lay like idle lumber in a garret, and I am sure that until recently nine-tenths of the people had forgotten its very existence. Members hesitated some time before dragging it out of its obscurity, dusting it, and bringing it into use. Last year an item for the salary of an agent was put on the Estimates, but withdrawn, much to the chagrin of the Opposition, who, weak as they were, had good hope of winning a party victory by defeating it, or at least of fighting a battle which would have damaged their opponents as much as a defeat. Mr. Griffith taunted them with running away from their item, and Sir Arthur Palmer retorted with indefinite threats of returning to the charge. Those threats are now apparently to be fulfilled. Ministers will give Parliament no chance of pronouncing on the question, because, as I hear, they have provided for the payment of the agent by fees, which will not pass through the Consolidated Revenue. Any regulations they may have framed under the Act will have to lie on the table of the House for a certain space, and if not rejected within that time will have the effect of law. Of course it will be open to the Opposition to reject the regulations if they can, but Ministers will score a point by their method of procedure. Several of their staunch supporters, having the fear of their constituents and the fact of an approaching general election before their eyes, would hesitate before voting a straight "aye" on the question whether coolies should or should not be imported. But they might vote for the regulations and explain to their constituents that though they were reluctant to admit coolies, yet as they had no power to veto them they preferred to make sure that the importation was duly regulated. It would be a very palpable evasion of course, but I have seen more flimsy devices successful with Queensland constituencies. The feature of interest to strangers in the affair is the boldness evinced by Ministers in determining to take what is virtually a quite new and important departure in public policy, not merely without asking the consent of Parliament, but without permitting Parliament to express a direct opinion on the subject.

Another new departure of quite a different nature is reported from the North. Mr. Thadeus O'Kane, of the Northern Miner, has been bound over by the Charters Towers Bench to keep the peace for a period of 12 months, under the provisions of an Act of Edward III. The proceedings were taken by one Morgan, a well-known Northern solicitor, who laid an information under the obsolete statute alleging that O'Kane had used abusive and quarrelsome language, and the Bench—composed mainly of very bitter political and personal enemies of the journalist—made an order binding him over under penalties not to offend again. Mr. O'Kane—"Thady" as he is called over the whole north of Queensland—is bewailing his condition and prints announcements in large type that he is "gagged" and that for 12 months scoundrelism must go unrebuked. Casual readers of the Northern Miner for some years past would be inclined to think it a decidedly good thing that it has been put under restraint, but those who are more intimately acquainted with the condition of that part of Queensland will hesitate to arrive at the same conclusion. Mr. O'Kane has wielded a very, very trenchant pen; indeed it should rather be said that he has slashed around with a tomahawk, caring little where his blows fell, or who he wounded. Yet on the whole he has decidedly wrought for good, and purified the community in which he has laboured. None who has not lived there can form a conception of the tropical rankness with which abuses flourish in the remote districts of the colony; and few journalists are daring enough to invite ruin by exposing them. I myself have known, among other things, a Judge to be in such a condition with drink that he was quite unfit to perform his duties, and conduct himself with the grossest indecency in public place without notice or rebuke. I have known other Judges habitually sacrifice the interests of justice to their desire to hasten away from a town to catch a steamer, and I have known the grossest public wrongs to be perpetrated, all without censure. The reason is an obvious one. The journalists are poor men. If they "keep in the swim," and don't offend the influential men of the town by dragging their little "arrangements" into uncomfortable publicity, they may say what they please regarding politics, and are allowed to show an appearance of independence by making a little personal fun of individuals. Now, O'Kane has known no limitations. No one could either coax or frighten him into ignoring what he believed to be a wrong or a scandal, so that he has made hosts of bitter enemies. Libel actions have been showered on him, but the miners, admiring his courage, and knowing that in the main he is right in his attacks, have stuck to him manfully, and the Miner is, I should say, the most widely-circulated northern journal. How the veteran franc tireur will meet this latest device of his foes is a subject of amused interest to a great many Queenslanders. If there was any real chance of his succumbing, there would be a feeling of decided regret.

News has been received that Sub-inspector Douglas has returned from a search for a road from Herberton to Mourilyan Harbour, which he was instructed to make. He reports that there is no chance of making a road, and that his party had to undergo the greatest hardships on their journey. They had no rations for about 20 days, living chiefly on roots during the time, and for 19 days it rained without intermission. Nevertheless he stuck to his work in the most plucky manner, and cut and marked a track through. It is a display of perseverance which does Mr. Douglas a great deal of credit, though I am not surprised that he did not find an available road. From the first occupation of the table land of the Hodgkinson, which is on about the same level as Herberton, the question was asked whether a practicable road could not be found to the fine natural harbour of Mourilyan. Several bushmen have at different times tried to solve the problem, but without success, and I don't think that there is any natural incline by which a road can be carried without great and costly engineering. As there is a question of carrying a railway from Herberton to the coast immediately to the fore, it is necessary to clear up the doubt which had still existed as to whether the best route might not be to Mourilyan. I presume that the Government will accept the report of Sub-inspector Douglas as conclusive, and confine their engineering survey to the rival ports of Port Douglas and Cairns.

OPEN COLUMN.

[With a view to give scope for the fuller discussion of public topics, articles will occasionally be inserted under this heading, for the opinions of which the Editor does not hold himself responsible.]

THE PLACE OF GREEK AND LATIN IN A LIBERAL EDUCATION.

When the University of Sydney received its amended charter 24 years ago, and seven years after its incorporation by Act of the Colonial Legislature, the Queen was made to say: "Now know ye that we, taking the premises into consideration, and deeming it the duty of our Royal office, for the advancement of religion and morality, and the promotion of useful knowledge, to hold forth to all classes and denominations of our faithful subjects, without any distinction whatsoever, throughout our dominions, encouragement for pursuing a regular and liberal course of education, and considering that many persons do prosecute and complete their studies in the colony of New South Wales, on whom it is just to confer such distinctions and rewards as may induce them to persevere in their laudable pursuits, do, by virtue of our prerogative Royal, and of our especial grace and certain knowledge, and mere motion, by these presents of us, our heirs and successors, will grant and declare that the degrees of Bachelor of Arts, Master of Arts, Bachelor of Laws, Doctor of Laws, Bachelor of Medicine, and Doctor of Medicine, already granted or conferred, or hereafter to be granted or conferred by the Senate of the said University of Sydney, shall be recognized as academic distinctions and rewards of merit, and be entitled to rank, precedence, and consideration in our United Kingdom, and in our colonies and possessions throughout the world, as fully as if the said degrees had been granted by any University of our said United Kingdom." At the time the University so chartered was incorporated a few months after the separation of Victoria, New South Wales contained only 197,168 inhabitants. For so small a community to grant for such a purpose an annual endowment of £5000, in addition to a building site and other assistance, may be deemed a liberal act. It is equal to £20,000 per annum from our present population, and to nearly a million per annum from the people of the United Kingdom.

What may be accepted as an absolute and legitimate definition of the phrase "a regular and liberal course of education"? The degrees enumerated above are supposed to be an adequate explanation of her Majesty's intention. But arts are multifarious; laws include many more things than the verbiage of legislators, and quite as well worth knowing; while medicine, to be worthy of its name, postulates a wide acquaintance with the general operations of nature. In every generation the boundaries of human knowledge are being enlarged, and the man who stops at the old landmarks is behind his day. It does not follow that progress means the obliteration of those landmarks. In some cases it may, but such landmarks are frauds on nature which would not have been possible but for the prevailing ignorance of the age. Men have not ceased to teach astronomy because they no longer believe in the fixity of the earth and the diurnal journey of the sun across the terrestrial plain. Every new fact added to the sum of human knowledge becomes itself the means of further discovery, and a liberal education must continue to be increasingly liberal to deserve its designation. Was Sigebert, king of East Anglia, who is somewhat mythically credited with the establishment of the first school of learning at Cambridge in the 7th century, or was Alfred, the hero of the 9th century, who is, on equally doubtful authority, sometimes claimed as the first Royal patron of Oxford, a fit person to prescribe how the youth of the 19th century shall be taught? Not even in the 18th century were all the things known which every well-educated person, man or woman, is expected to be familiar with now. It may not be that all these things should be taught in Universities, for that might degrade them into factories and workshops. Hence it is necessary to seek some better definition of "a regular and liberal education," some reliable principles to apply as tests of a suitable curriculum at the highest seats of learning in a nation. For this purpose a glance at the history and present position of the two leading English Universities may be of service.

According to the calendar for 1881 Oxford had 45 professors and 7 teachers. In her 21 colleges and 6 halls there were on the books 10,241 members or resident students. The Cambridge calendar for the same year contains a list of 37 professors, and in her 17 colleges and one hall 11,113 names were entered, a few being non-collegiate students. In the number of residents, therefore, Cambridge surpasses Oxford. The largest number of residents in any one college or hall at Cambridge is 3374 in Trinity College, over which Dr. W. H. Thompson presides. The largest at Oxford is 1199 in Christ Church, under the care of Dr. Henry George Liddell. The curricula in force in the two Universities, with the number of professors devoted to each branch of knowledge, can be generalized as follows:—

Classification of Chairs.	No. of Professors. Oxford.	Cambridge.
Greek, Latin, and Hebrew	3	3
Other and still living languages	6	4
Mathematics	1	3
Ancient History	2	Classics
Modern History	3	1
Logic, Metaphysics, Morals and Political Economy ...	4	2
The Natural Sciences	7	9
Medical	3	3
Legal	7	3
Divinity, Ecclesiastical History, and Exegesis	6	6
Music and Fine Arts	2	2
Poetry	1	...
Archæology	...	1
Total	45	37

Nothing but a simple inspection of this list is needed to convince anybody that no ordinary mortal can possibly become competent in every subject; nor was it meant that he should. Clergymen, lawyers, and doctors must necessarily branch off at some particular point in their studies, and so must students of music, the fine arts, archæology, and several of the natural sciences. Up to that point of separation how much ought they to learn in common so as to deserve the appellation "men of culture and liberal education?" The answer to that question differs at different periods of time. The old scholastic foundations in England, and in all continental countries, owe their existence directly or mediately to the clergy, and were intended mainly for the education of clergymen, like the "schools of the prophets" in the age of ancient Israel. To this day Oxford and Cambridge continue to be, to a large extent, priestly seminaries, notwithstanding the liberalising effects of the last half century. How can they be otherwise when the colleges hold in their hands perhaps a thousand benefices of the Church of England, many of them the richest between the two seas? For a long time law, if not medicine, was in the possession of the clergy, and opened before them the great offices of State. The first professorships founded were the Margaret of Divinity, one at each University, and that was in 1502. The next were the Regius of Divinity at Cambridge in 1540, and at Oxford in 1546. Then followed civil law, medicine, physic, Hebrew, Greek, Arabic, geometry, mathematics, and many similar subjects; held upon the original foundations to this day. Gradually they got as far as astronomy, natural philosophy, moral philosophy, ancient history, music, and botany, which is all they had reached at the beginning of the 18th century. Even when the last of the Georges died, only 52 years ago, classics, mathematics, and divinity were the sum total of "a liberal education" in the ordinary University curriculum, and students who travelled into spheres of knowledge beyond these were very few, and were attracted either by some special taste, or some definite purpose in life. In spite of this "liberal education" monopolised by the Universities, if it ever was true that "the learned professions, including the Church, had very little learning to divide amongst them," it was true in England even up to the beginning of the present reign. With some notable exceptions, such as great and good men, the true nobility and cultured gentlemen of nature always make whenever and wherever they are born, the squire and the parson left their classic halls to pitch their precious lore into the dust-room and spend most of their time in the hunting-field and at the banqueting board; the doctors were quacks and the lawyers were pettifoggers; the army and navy were as uncultured as they were brave, knowing how to fight and caring for little else; while true culture remained in the hearts of the few who have made the Victorian age more illustrious than that of Augustus.

When classics were almost the sole study of the learned, there was very little besides classics for them to study. Books were rare and costly, readers were exceedingly few, life was wild, manners were rough, law was weak, honour meant merely chivalry to the high born, justice to all ranks was scarcely understood, the thraldom of villeinage was general, and the nations of modern Europe were only beginning to form those national literatures which are now rich with strong thought and noble speech. The culture of the old world had been broken to pieces by the terrible hammer of Gothic barbarism, and only its fragments remained scattered over the wasted plains and ruined cities of Christendom. In the midst of the wild havoc a new spirit had been born, a new religion promulgated, a new inspiration caught by the suffering millions, and a Gospel of love, peace, and hope committed to the hands of men. Jupiter and Thor, with the whole consistory of oriental and Gothic divinities, had been hurled from their thrones, and a Galilean peasant crowned in their stead. To learn his messages, the languages of Homer and Virgil must be restored to life, and hundreds of pious men devoted themselves to the task. For the burning songs of Sappho, the rolling numbers of Homer, the awe-breathing tragedies of Æschylus and his younger rivals, the scathing wit of Aristophanes, the stirring narratives of Thucydides, the wisdom of Socrates and his successors, they cared not one straw. Had they possessed those works, and known their contents, they would have burnt up the whole classical library of antiquity for lewdness and impiety. The Old Testament in Hebrew and Greek, the New Testament in Greek and Latin, were more to them than all other literature; and if they went further it was to collect that rich patristic lore which divinity students are exhorted to study, but which Greek and Latin professors themselves are so seldom able to admire. But as the centuries rolled on the ecclesiastical mind began to expand, a new literature was created, other subjects of study acquired recognition, and the revival of learning was achieved. Yet Latin was retained as the common language of the learned, although very different from that of Virgil, Horace, Cicero, and Livy. It obtained the name of dog-Latin, as the wits say, on account of the following story:—A learned society was discussing a grave dilemma of the schools, when a dog had the temerity to invade their sanctum. The president rose to command its instant expulsion, and in tones of anger cried to the attendant janitor, "Verte canem ex," whereupon his more learned brethren raised such a shout of laughter as effectually disconcerted their president's belief in the purity of his Latinity. The circulation of the Bible in the vernacular, the rising supremacy of Protestantism in England, Scotland, Germany, and the Netherlands, the substitution of the Inductive Philosophy for the old Aristotelian, the rapid march of discovery in every branch of natural science, have all combined to throw open the gates of the old universities in a degree which would have horrified the dons and proctors of former times, could the possibility of such daring innovations have crossed the field of their mental vision. Like the blind old Abbot of Holy Isle in Scott's "Marmion," who raised his sightless balls to heaven and quietly and secretly doomed to death two erring children of the abbey, for whom modern society would have had a different sentence—

> "Sister, let thy sorrows cease; > Sinful brother, part in peace"—

those aged dons and proctors of the olden time would have deemed these scientific revelations rank heresy, punishable with at least collegiate death. But that spirit is dead, with few mourners to wail its requiem, and with no hope of any resurrection.

What, then, is the proper place of Greek and Latin in a liberal education as now understood? They are dead languages, and their present representatives are Romaic, which has superseded "the language of gods and men" on Mount Olympus itself; and Italian, French, Spanish, and Portuguese, four transformations of that "Lingua Latina" which had itself superseded Etruscan, Pelasgian, and other tongues in the Italian peninsula. Yet these two dead languages are still taught in almost every University in the world, and because in the Universities, therefore in all high schools. Scarcely anywhere is it possible to obtain an Arts degree without a competent acquaintance with at least three or four leading authors in each tongue, and without some facility in Latin and Greek composition. The time it takes to master such an accomplishment is immense. The writer of this article once heard the late Professor De Morgan and the present Professor Seeley agree in the opinion that a freshman entering the University with no knowledge of mathematics beyond common arithmetic, might become senior wrangler within a few terms; but no student, however quick and retentive his memory, could hope to pass high in classics who had not previously studied them for some 10 years of his life. Is the result worth the trouble? In all humility—no, for the majority of students. For some, Latin and Greek will, of course, be a speciality, and they cannot pursue them too far. But for the bulk of those who enter the examination-room nothing more need be required, and nothing more is likely to be useful than such a degree of classical knowledge as the University of Sydney, in common with the University of London, demands from all candidates who pass at matriculation. That will enable them for the rest of their lives to test a citation, or refer to a passage that may be in demand, and to work out a translation for themselves by help of grammar and dictionary, which is as much as nine-tenths of our B.As. and M.As. are able to do now a few years after leaving college, unless their calling in life happens to be specially scholastic or literary. Nor does it necessarily follow that this would be a mere smattering of learning. The matriculation examination could be made far more comprehensive, the option of subjects could begin from that point, and the papers increase in depth as their breadth was narrowed at each succeeding stage. That is in accordance with the maxim which says "every well-educated man should know something of everything, and everything of something." A national university, supported more by annual endowments from the public purse than by the fees of students, lies under peculiar obligation to make its benefits as widely accessible as it can. But there the Sydney institution stands in all but desolation in the midst of a metropolitan population of a quarter of a million souls, a monument of its own inertia, as much as of colonial want of culture. Take its curriculum for the degree of B.A.: Candidates apply for matriculation, paying the not unusual fee of £2 each. They are then examined in Greek and Latin, English grammar and composition, elementary chemistry, physics or geology, arithmetic, algebra to simple equations, and the 1st book of Euclid; exemption from Greek being allowed on special application. After this they must attend lectures at the University for a year on Greek language and literature, Latin language and literature, mathematics, and experimental physics, paying £22 1s. as fees for the three terms, and passing an examination in these subjects before going on to the second year. Having done this satisfactorily, they must attend lectures during that second year in Greek, Latin, mathematics, natural philosophy, chemistry, and geology, at a charge of £28 7s. in fees, with an examination awaiting them at the end of the year. Provision is made for exemption from compulsory attendance upon lectures for not more than one year, upon special report of the matriculation examiners. After these two years have been successfully got through, a third has to be passed, with compulsory attendance, with the exception named, at the University lectures on two out of the following three schools:—1. Classical—The Greek and Latin languages and ancient history. 2. Mathematics and natural philosophy. 3. Natural science—chemistry, experimental physics, practical chemistry and geology. If they elect the first two branches the fees will be at least £12 12s.; and if they elect either of them, along with the third, apparently £31 13s. Thus it takes a student three years from the date of his matriculation, and costs him from £67 to £89 before he can be admitted to the final B.A. examination, with the chance of being plucked even then. Meanwhile he has to board either at home, if that be in Sydney, or some other convenient place, and pay all other personal expenses, cost of class-books, &c. How many families in New South Wales, rich as she is in natural sources of wealth, can afford these three years' time and this cost of some £300 to pass their sons and daughters through the Sydney University up to the degree of B.A. At Oxford the cost for the whole three years' course has been estimated at £400, and in one college there at only £150; while at Cambridge it is put down at £200, in each case including board. But both Universities are rich in scholarships, prizes and fellowships, the accumulation of five centuries of royal and private beneficence, sufficient to pay the entire cost of educating a considerable proportion of the students for the whole of their course. But apart from the cost, the curriculum itself is both too narrow and too severe. It is too narrow, because it affords no chance for any students within the colony obtaining "the guinea stamp" of a University degree to any proficiency they may acquire in a whole range of subjects of immense interest and value. Logic appears in the list of subjects professed in the bylaws, but it is to be found nowhere else in the calendar—not even at examinations. Mental science, moral and political philosophy, social science, modern history, political economy, and the whole range of subjects usually forming the faculties of law and medicine, together with half the natural sciences and all modern literature, find no place at present in the University of Sydney. But classics are made to dominate everything else, and to exclude many subjects that might be very easily introduced. Such an institution can be a University only in name, and it is time the public began to demand the reality.

The fault rests mainly with successive Ministries and Parliaments who have been fighting political battles about their vulgar "three Rs." of the common schools, and neglecting and starving everything higher. It is not to be expected that with so small a population we can create in Sydney an Oxford or a Cambridge. The Chairs already existing are as many as the funds hitherto available would enable the Senate to maintain, and the few professors who fill those chairs have been able to send home students who, in their own particular branches of study, have held their own at the great English seats of learning. But how few they have been! For the 21,000 attending lectures at Oxford and Cambridge, leaving out those at the other English Universities, we have some 80 in Sydney, which is about a ten-thousandth part of the English rate in proportion to population. Our rich men go home with their families, because they want their boys to find a wider field of competition and a more comprehensive range of study. And so they will continue to do until we make our own alma mater all her Majesty describes in the charter of 1858. A better proportion of studies within would provoke greater sympathy without, and inspire a liberal exercise of that enlightened beneficence for which Australians have both the inclination and the means.

POLICE.

CENTRAL POLICE COURT.

Mr. Dillon, S.M., occupied the Bench on Saturday.

Thomas M'Nulty, charged with having stolen a pair of trousers and a vest, valued together at 15s., the goods of a shopkeeper named Emanuel Hopkins, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to be imprisoned with hard labour three months. M'Nulty also pleaded guilty to Constable Alger's charge of having assaulted him, and for which offence he was sentenced to one month's additional imprisonment.

James Murdoch pleaded guilty to a charge of having stolen a pair of trousers, valued at 6s., the property of Joe Marsh, and was sentenced to be imprisoned one month.

John Williams was charged with being a suspected person found frequenting Hyde Park with intent to commit a felony. Constable Power deposed that about 3 o'clock in the morning, being on duty in Hyde Park, he saw the prisoner overhauling a man who lay asleep on a bench, and he motioned as if in the act of throwing something away; he went up and arrested him, awoke the sleeper, and by the light of a match found, lying at some few yards distance, a purse (produced), which the man who had been asleep claimed as his property. Dennis Cashel, residing in Jamison-street, deposed that he had been knocking about all day on Friday, and late at night, having been unable to obtain admittance anywhere, went to Hyde Park, and fell asleep until he was awoke by the constable; the purse produced is his property; he had no money in it, but in his pocket he had a watch. Prisoner denied that he had any felonious intent, and alleged that he had never been in custody before for any offence whatever. The police did not recognize him as having been previously in custody, but for which, his Worship said, the sentence would have been much more severe. To be imprisoned seven days.

Beatrice Lee, 7, and Letitia Mary Lee, 9, were brought before the Bench, having been taken into custody for protection. It appeared that their parents are deceased, and that they had been kept by a woman who, a day or two since, had been convicted of, and sent to gaol for vagrancy. To be forwarded to the Benevolent Asylum, Pitt-street South, with a recommendation for their reception.

WATER POLICE COURT.

Mr. Buchanan, S.M., disposed of the business on Saturday.

Thomas Devin, 23, was charged with being on the enclosed lands of the Union Steamship Company, at Miller's Point, without the consent of the owners or caretaker. He pleaded not guilty, but was convicted and ordered to pay a fine of 40s.; in default, a month in gaol.

NEWTOWN POLICE COURT.

On Friday, before Mr. Dillon, S.M., William Hutchinson, for stealing a quantity of furniture to the value of £20, from the dwelling-house of Frederick Sewell, was committed for trial at the Quarter Sessions, bail being allowed in £80, and two sureties in £40.

On Saturday, before Mr. Crane, S.M., George Prince, deemed to be insane, was remanded for seven days, for medical observation.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

A coroner's inquest was held on Saturday afternoon, before the City Coroner (Mr. Henry Shield, J.P.) in the Commercial Hotel, Elizabeth-street South, as to the cause of the death of Emma Roebuck, found dead at her residence in Randle-street, on Friday forenoon. Constable Forsyth deposed that, in consequence of what he had been told by a Mr. Murdoch, he went to the residence of the deceased and there saw her lying on the floor of the front room, used as a shop, between a sofa and a counter; he saw no marks of violence on her body. David Henderson Murdoch, a bailiff of the Small Debts Court for the Redfern district, deposed, that in the execution of his duty, at about 20 minutes past 11 o'clock on Friday forenoon, he proceeded to the house of the deceased; he knocked at the front door but received no answer, and he then entered the premises by a back door, and saw the deceased lying in the front room as described; she was dead; there was no appearance of a struggle or disturbance in the room; from the appearance of the sofa witness concluded that deceased had slipped off it on to the floor. Theresa Gleeson identified the deceased as Emma Roebuck, a widow, without children, and who was about 60 years of age, having been about 20 years in the colony; lately she had secluded herself in her house, not admitting visitors. Dr. Henry Day deposed to having made a post-mortem examination of the body of the deceased; and was of opinion that she had died from the effect of a fit of sanguineous apoplexy. A verdict in accordance with the medical testimony was returned.

GERMAN EMIGRATION.—The Berlin Post publishes some very interesting statistical details on the proportions that German emigration assumed last year. From the ports of Bremen, Hamburg, and Stettin alone 184,369 Germans set out for America. At Antwerp the embarkation of 26 178 Germans was registered. The exact number of Germans who embarked at Havre, Rotterdam, Liverpool, Glasgow, and London has not been ascertained, but it is thought that the general total of emigrants is beyond 300,000.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Made simply with boiling water or milk. NEW ENGLAND DISTRICT.

FOR ABSOLUTE SALE.

ALFREDA STATION,
heads of Clarence Water, estimated area 45 square miles, with from 100 to 150 head quiet dairy cattle.

GEORGE ALLINGHAM has received instructions from the owners to sell by public auction, at his Rooms, Beardy-street, Armidale, on TUESDAY, 27th instant, at 12 o'clock noon,
The ALFREDA STATION, situated on the heads of the Clarence Water, about 40 miles from Armidale, and 90 miles from the seaport town of Grafton, comprising an estimated area of 45 square miles of good grazing country, thickly grassed, and permanently watered in all seasons by the Doughboy, Scabby, Sandy, and other creeks running through the run, and adjoins the well-known stations Woolloomumbi, Broadmeadows, Guy Faux, and Kangaroo Hills.
The improvements include overseer's cottage, good stockyard, and horse paddock. With the run will be sold from 100 to 150 head quiet dairy cattle.

Terms, liberal at sale.

☞ This station sustained a large number of sheep from the lower country during the late severe drought of '78 and '79, and would form a valuable auxiliary to a station on Liverpool Plains. The boundaries are well defined, and the run is free from selectors, including a large extent of valuable back grazing country never likely to be used for any other purpose.
An early and full inspection invited, and further information can be obtained from
GEO. ALLINGHAM,
Stock and Station Agent,
Armidale.

PRELIMINARY ADVERTISEMENT.

FRIDAY, JULY 14, 1882.

WILKINSON, GRAVES, and LAVENDER, Sydney, in conjunction with Powers, Rutherford, and Co., Melbourne, have received instructions from Messrs. Baird and Henderson to sell by auction,
at
the Sale Room of the latter,
79, Collins-street West,
Melbourne,
on
FRIDAY, July 14, 1882,
at
2.30 p.m. sharp,
Their stations called GOONOO SOUTH or GUNDAWERA and NAVENA, on the Barwon, having an estimated area of 96,000 acres of really first-class salt and cotton bush country.
Magnificently watered in all seasons.
Thoroughly well fenced and subdivided into numerous paddocks, and otherwise completely improved.
New wool shed, &c., &c.
With the station will be sold 45,000 high-class sheep, of Riverina blood, 20 quiet cattle, and 20 working horses.
This is in every way and from every point of view a most desirable squatting property.
The purchaser will have the immediate return of drafts of fat sheep, the clip of wool, and the lambs will be given in.
Terms, one-third cash, balance in bills at 1, 2, 3, and 4 years. Interest at 6 per cent.
Inspection is invited, for which purpose letters can be had from WILKINSON, GRAVES, and LAVENDER, Sydney; or from
POWERS, RUTHERFORD, and CO., Melbourne.
Further particulars in future advertisements, and for additional information apply to either of the above agents.

HAVILAH RAM SALE.

WEDNESDAY, July 19, 1882.

Sale to be held at Havilah, near Mudgee.

Special coaches from Capertee Railway Station to Havilah, 50 miles.

GRIFFITHS and WEAVER are instructed by Mr. H. C. White to sell by auction, at Havilah, on above date,
The whole of the usual annual drafts from the famous Havilah flocks, so long known as the late Mr. N. P. Bayly's stud sheep, comprising about—
50 special stud rams
1600 stud hogget rams
1000 stud ewes, 3½ years to aged
800 stud ewes, rising 3 years.
Memo.—The ewes have been tupped by special stud rams to drop 1st September.
The sheep will be divided into suitable lots, the special studs being sold separately or in small lots, and the balance in pens of 50 to 100, with option to purchaser of taking following pens.

The Havilah flocks having long maintained a pre-eminent position amongst the merino sheep of Australia, both at the wool sales and on the show ground and the sale yards, it is only necessary to add that the whole of the sheep to be offered on July 19 have been carefully selected and culled, and that Mr. White offers all his ram lambs of 1881, excepting the usual 60 retained for station use.
Intending buyers are requested to give the Auctioneers early intimation of their intention to attend the sale, so that sufficient coach accommodation may be provided.
Pamphlets, with full particulars, to be obtained from
GRIFFITHS and WEAVER, Sydney.

In the Metropolitan and Hunter District Court, holden at Sydney.
M'GREADY V. THORNE.

TITLE, FREEHOLD.

HARDIE and GORMAN have received instructions from Thomas Peate, Esq. (on account of his removal into the country), to sell by public auction, at their Rooms, Bell's-chambers, Pitt-street, at 11.30 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, 14th JUNE.
THE ABOVE-DESCRIBED SUBURBAN RESIDENCE, situate within two minutes' walk of the Newtown Railway Station and the Kingston omnibus stand.

Cards for inspection can be obtained on application at the Rooms.

. The Auctioneers desire to call special attention to the large amount of internal accommodation. It is not often that a property so well suited for a large family, having six bedrooms, is offered in the public market. The locality is picturesque, the surroundings are good, and being so near—only two minutes' walk—to the Newtown Railway Station, Darnlee is specially convenient to the man of business. Everything has been done to make the property a complete home, and a large amount of taste has been displayed in beautifying the house and grounds.

GOOD INVESTMENT.
NEWTOWN.

THE SIR WILLIAM WALLACE HOTEL, KING-STREET (formerly Newtown-road), a few feet south of CAMDEN-STREET and CAMDEN COLLEGE.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from Mr. M'DONALD to sell by public auction, at their Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, 16th JUNE, at 11 o'clock,
ALL THAT ALLOTMENT of LAND having 24 feet 4 inches Frontage to the West side of KING-STREET, NEWTOWN, near CAMDEN COLLEGE, with a depth of 133 feet, on which is erected the SIR WILLIAM WALLACE HOTEL, containing bar, 10 rooms, kitchen, and cellar, with coachhouse and stable, side entrance to large yard at rear, water laid on, &c., &c.
A permanent investment in a rapidly improving and very popular part of Newtown, on the MAIN THOROUGHFARE.
It is in full trade, and doing a good business.
This Hotel from its central position must yearly enhance in value, and as the population continues to increase in this immediate neighbourhood, a few years must bring this position to the front, and property here will realise considerably more than it does at present.
Inspection of the property is invited.
Terms at sale.

Publishers, WATERLOW and SONS, LONDON WALL, LONDON.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

JOURNAL OF THE SOCIETY OF ARTS.

"The information given in this book is so arranged as to be practically useful to those who require Designs of Furniture such as are called for by the wants of the present day."

THE ANTIQUARY.

"The introductory 'Notes on Household Furniture' which precedes the plates is an interesting and lucid summary of the chief points in the history of household furniture. We take it as a good sign in the progress of artistic furniture that this work should have been so handsomely and expensively produced, and accompanied by a well-executed sketch of what household furniture was in the past."

FURNITURE GAZETTE.

"Any complete and faithful record of the Furniture used by the masses of any country at a particular time must be of value, and such a work is now before us in the shape of a comprehensive Catalogue of Registered Designs of Colonial Furniture, as special interest attaches to this book from the fact that it forms an historical record of more than ordinary value, showing the improvements in style that have taken place from time to time. We feel sure that this enterprise will meet with commercial success as well as do a great service to the progress of art in this country."

ARCHITECTS' AND BUILDERS' TRADE REVIEW.

"Our attention has been called to one of the finest productions on Cabinet Furniture which has ever been published. Although there is such a number of Designs for Furniture in this work, yet there is no vulgar crowding, but on each page a choice selection of practical Furniture. The book is the result of very great care, and we recommend it to the attention of all those who want a reliable reference to the best kinds of Furniture."
